Red Satellite Leaders End Berlin Parley

Romania's Absence Indicates New Rift On Communist Front

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet satellite leaders headed home today after a weekend meeting with Premier Khrushchev apparently called to renew support for him in his worsening dispute with Communist China.

Janos Kadar of Hungary left for Budapest Sunday night. Wladyslaw Gomulka of Poland flew back to Warsaw today.

The show of unity was marred by the conspicuous absence of Romania's veteran Red leader Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej. This roused speculation there may be a new break in the Red facade.

Khrushchev will address a rally here Tuesday the East Berlin press announced.

Khrushchev told an East German audience Sunday night that communism stands "as firm as granite." But the gap in the ranks of the European Reds standing glumly around him underlined the growing crisis in the world Communist movement.

Also absent—as expected—was Albania which has supported Communist China in its dispute with the Soviet Union.

Romania's absence was all the more glaring since Khrushchev presumably summoned his satellite chiefs to muster support for conference with the Red Chinese which opens in Moscow Friday.

Red China declared today that its quarrel with the Soviet Union had grown from an ideological dispute to a question of government relations.

It said it still intends to send a delegation to Moscow to discuss differences but emphasized that it will hold to its tough line.

A Chinese Communist party statement charged that the Soviet expulsion of five Chinese from the Soviet Union last week constituted a "serious step in further worsening of Chinese-Soviet relations and in manufacturing a split in the international Communist movement."

Ostensibly the European Red leaders gathered in East Berlin to celebrate the birthday of East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht who was 70 Sunday. But as the Red brass assembled it became apparent the meeting had a more significant purpose.

Albania, North Korea and North Viet Nam have committed themselves openly to Peking. They have endorsed the Chinese view that Khrushchev's efforts to avoid nuclear war with the West have carried him out of the sphere of revolutionary communism.

Addressing birthday greetings to Ulbricht the Soviet premier praised him for his support of the international Communist movement.

The audience of some 3000 East Germans cheered enthusiastically when Khrushchev pledged that Germany would one day be united but under communism.

But there was little enthusiasm in the grim faces of four major Soviet bloc leaders—Janos Kadar of Hungary Antonin Novotny of Czechoslovakia Todor Zhivkov of Bulgaria and Wladyslaw Gomulka of Poland.

NAACP Convenes 6-Day Conference

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's 54th annual convention termed by leaders as "the most important in our history" opens today for a six-day stand.

Officials said more than 2,000 delegates from 1,649 chapters in the nation will study all phases of the Negro's fight for equality, both in the North and the South.

A massive parade is planned for Thursday, July 4, with a giant outdoor rally to follow in Grant Park as a kickoff for what NAACP officials called "Our summer of discontent."

Congress Asked To Ban Segregation by Business

U.S. President Confers with Italian Chiefs

ROME (AP)—President Kennedy arrived in Rome today to a sparse reception by Italian standards and promptly went into a conference with Italian leaders in his drive to build stronger unity between the United States and Western Europe.

Kennedy told an airport reception of Italian leaders and Americans that he had come to seek ways for the United States and its allies to maintain their 15-year-old alliance. He was expected to find the Italian officials receptive. Tuesday he will meet Pope Paul VI.

On his drive from the airport the President rode past Rome's ancient splendor.

A turnout of only tens of thousands of Romans was a contrast to the throngs who flocked to see the President in Germany and Ireland.

It was a searing hot day, with the temperature in the 90s, and the traditional start of vacation time for Italians. Kennedy's motorcade from the airport was held up 10 minutes by heavy traffic on the road to the sea resorts.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, announced that Kennedy would leave Italy for Washington Tuesday night instead of Wednesday morning, ending his European trip about 15 hours earlier than originally planned.

Salinger said the presidential plane would depart from Naples at 7 p.m. Tuesday after Kennedy visited North Atlantic Treaty Organization headquarters.

Kennedy flew to Italy from Britain after 12 hours of discussion there with Prime Minister MacMillan on a range of topics including over-all East-West relations, nuclear test ban negotiations, Kennedy's proposal for a NATO nuclear surface fleet.

A final communique stressed that East-West relations and nuclear ban talks were top issues in their meeting. The communique said that the two leaders had agreed on the general lines which their envoys would take with the Soviets in the test ban talks opening in Moscow July 15.

As expected, however, MacMillan still refused to commit his government to the proposed nuclear surface fleet. He would go no further than to agree to studies of the project with interested members of the North Atlantic Alliance.

MacMillan and Kennedy also approved a program of military aid for India, facing the threat of new attacks from Red China; called on the communist nations to live up to their pledges in 1962 to respect the peace, independence and neutrality of Laos, and promised to continue working closely together in the defense of their mutual interests around the world.

Trieste Fails To Find Sub

AT SEA, Aboard USS Fort Snelling (AP)—The bathyscaphe Trieste headed for an overhaul in Boston today after five futile dives in the Atlantic to look for the lost nuclear submarine Thresher.

The fifth dive cut short by two hours Sunday, was described as negative. The Trieste was brought up sooner than the planned six hours because of failure of the gyro compass and one of its three propulsion motors.

The Trieste was headed for an area of the ocean bottom where a research vessel had photographed a 3,000-pound air bottle of the type used on the Thresher. The submarine disappeared about 220 miles east of Boston April 10 with 129 men aboard.

The salvage ship USS Preserver took the Trieste in tow for the voyage to Boston. The trip is expected to take nearly four days.

Throngs from North, South Recall Gettysburg Battle

GETTYSBURG BATTLEFIELD, Pa. (AP)—Drawn by the magnet of awesome history, throngs from North and South commemorate today the beginning of the greatest battle ever fought in the Western Hemisphere.

On this day 100 years ago Gen. Robert E. Lee's Confederates drove the hosts of Gen. George Gordon Meade across rolling countryside and through the streets of Gettysburg—only to find the federal troops finally rallying on Cemetery Hill and Ridge.

Three days later Lee, a beaten man nobly asserting, "It was all my fault," ordered a retreat—and the Civil War had reached its turning point.

The highlight of today's commemoration was a solemn afternoon ceremony at the Eternal Light peace memorial overlooking the scene of the first day's clash.

Governors or other representatives of 27 of the 29 states whose men fought and fell here were on hand to lay wreaths at the monument's base and otherwise pay tribute to the dead. Louisiana and Tennessee decided not to send a representation.

Another event on today's program was the dedication by Postmaster General J. Edward Day of a Gettysburg commemorative stamp. Half gray and half blue, the stamp shows a federal and a man from Dixie locked in bayonet combat.

Throughout the three-day observance "Vignettes of History" will be given by amateur theatrical groups clad in reproductions of the dress of a century ago.

For example there will be a playlet each morning at Devil's Den or Sharpshooter's Roost. This was a place of violence and death which was won and lost many times by both sides during the carnage. It is a forbidding place

Storms Bring Some Floods, Cuts in Power

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sporadic thundershowers accompanied by lightning and wind hopped around the state Sunday afternoon flooding streets and knocking out power in some areas.

Rainfall amounts varied widely, according to the Weather Bureau, and while a particular area was drenched, another area only a mile or two away was untouched.

The Weather Bureau gave these official rainfall amounts: Port Columbus Airport .18 of an inch, Dayton 1.26, Cincinnati .1, Cleveland Municipal Airport none, Akron .02, Zanesville none.

But the Weather Bureau said that the various thundershowers responsible for the storms showed up on radar as measuring about three miles in diameter, and while the Weather Bureau station at Port Columbus showed only .18 of an inch, another part of the city could have had an inch or more.

South of Columbus, Vafley Crossing had .78 of an inch and Lithopolis had 1.03 inches.

A thunderstorm in the Dayton area knocked out electrical service to many areas, particularly in Kettering and Miami Township.

The Dayton Power & Light Co. said it had received 2,669 calls reporting power failure from the time the storm hit about 1:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Service was not completely restored until early this morning.

Body of Ohio Mother Still Sought in River

RIPLEY, Ohio (AP)—Searchers still had found no trace today of the body of Mrs. Marilyn Liggett, 27, who, with her three-year-old stepdaughter, Jennifer, drowned in the Ohio River Saturday night.

Mrs. Liggett and the child fell overboard from a boat about 16 miles downstream from here. The child's body was found Sunday.

Mrs. Liggett was the wife of Brown County Prosecutor Richard F. Liggett. Liggett and his two other children were in the boat when the mishap occurred.

RFK Condemns Immoral Logic Of Bigotry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy declared today that segregation of privately owned businesses that serve the public is "one of the most abhorrent forms of racial discrimination," and asked Congress to outlaw it.

Testifying in behalf of a key provision of President Kennedy's civil rights package, the attorney general told the Senate Commerce Committee that such discrimination is an insult and humiliation to millions of American citizens.

Describing what he called "the immoral logic of bigotry," Kennedy said in his prepared statement:

"White people of whatever kind—even prostitutes, narcotics pushers, Communists or bank robbers—are welcome at establishments which will not admit certain of our federal judges, ambassadors and countless members of our armed forces."

He was questioned closely by Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., as to just what businesses would be covered by the bill, which would ban racial discrimination in privately owned establishments serving the public and substantially affecting interstate commerce.

For example, Kennedy said that whether a barbershop would be covered would depend on whether it serves interstate travelers to a substantial degree. He said he thought barbershops in hotels or bus and train terminals would be subject to the act. This also would be true of beauty shops, he said.

Kennedy said he didn't think the bill would apply to bowling alleys or pool halls, nor to laundries and dry cleaning establishments except under unusual circumstances. He said it would not apply to doctors, lawyers or others providing professional services.

Kennedy, generally following the same arguments he presented in testifying for the rights pack-

No Official Drought Aid Seen for Ohio

Word from the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office today pointed out that Ohio and Pickaway County have not been declared drought areas.

This is contrary to earlier stories which listed Ohio as one of 12 states in line for emergency drought assistance by the Agriculture Department.

Austin Dowden, local ASCS office manager, today said contact with his state office disclosed that there is no confirmed information that Ohio has been declared in the drought area as yet. He said the same held true after checks were made with Washington.

According to the local ASCS official, this means Ohio and Pickaway County are not eligible for drought aid at this time.

172 Red Guerrillas Killed in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—President Ngo Dinh Diem's force claimed they killed 172 Communist guerrillas in weekend ground and air strikes in the Mekong River delta.

Vietnamese officers said 110 Reds were killed Sunday when an armored column struck at guerrillas in Kien Phong Province on the Plain of Reeds.

Fighter plane strikes Saturday killed 62 guerrillas, American sources said.

POPE PAUL VI CROWNED — Pope Paul VI waves to crowds outside Church of St. Charles in Rome where he celebrated Mass for a group of pilgrims from Milan where he had been Archbishop before his elevation to the Papacy. Thousands of pilgrims from all over the world including official delegations from 90 nations filled Saint Peter's Square Sunday as Pope Paul was crowned the 262nd Pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church.

Pope Paul Dedicates Reign To Peace, Christian Unity

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI dedicated his reign to world peace and Christian unity Sunday night stressing the universality of his pledge with a coronation address in nine languages.

A quarter of a million spectators, the greatest throng ever to witness a papal coronation, jammed St. Peter's Square to see Paul VI crowned amid ritual splendor.

Speaking first in Latin and then in eight modern languages, the 262nd supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church dedicated his reign to the twin goals of his world-acclaimed predecessor, Pope John XXIII.

He appealed for sacrifice in the interest of world peace and acknowledged the "gravity of the obstacles" on the road to Christian unity. He warned that neither goal can be reached easily.

In the highlight of the 2½ hour ceremony, Alfredo Cardinal Otta-viani placed a new lightweight beehive crown on the head of Pope Paul, the former Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini of Milan.

As he did so he said: "Receive this tiara, adorned with three crowns, and know that you are the father of princes and kings, guide of the world and vicar on earth of Christ Jesus our Savior."

The new spiritual ruler of half a billion Roman Catholics opens his personal quest in the cause of peace Tuesday in a historic meeting with President Kennedy, first Roman Catholic chief executive of the United States.

If Pope Paul continues changes instituted by Pope John in Vatican relations with Communist countries, eventually he may also receive Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The ceremony began as a brilliant summer sun settled into a violet sky.

The ceremony ran 2½ hours into the night. Great spotlights lit up the baroque facade of St. Peter's Basilica where altar, canopy and throne had been set up.

Three times as Pope Paul was borne through the square on his portable throne a strip of flax was burned before his eyes as an attendant chanted in Latin "Holy Father, thus passes the glory of the world."

The Pope celebrated Mass and again appeared moved when he received a white silk purse containing 25 coins, payment for "a Mass well sung" and symbol that he was a priest as well as a pope.

He received the homage of the cardinals and finally the crown, symbol of his temporal authority.

Quad Girls, 19-Year-Old Mom Doing OK

CHICAGO (AP) — Quadruplet girls were born to a 19-year-old mother Sunday and a doctor said their chance for survival was excellent.

Ten minutes separated the births of the first and fourth daughters of Dolores Harris. The Negro infants weighed, in order of delivery, 4 pounds 10 ounces, 4 pounds 15 ounces, 4 pounds 14½ ounces and 4 pounds 7½ ounces. They were moved to Michael Reese Hospital's premature nursery soon after birth where all were reported "doing fine."

Mrs. Harris had been given special care by the hospital since March 30 when physicians discovered she was bearing four babies.

"It was more difficult for us because we knew that four children were coming," said her husband, Bernard, 23, a factory worker.

The Harris also have a son, Shawn, who is 15 months old.

Southern Japan Counts 18 Dead in Landslides

Downpours Sunday flooded 31,870 homes in two Southern states alone, police said, causing 233 landslides and huge crop destruction. Property damage was estimated in tens of millions of dollars.

Sporadic thunderstorms accompanied by lightning and wind hopped around the state Sunday afternoon flooding streets and knocking out power in some areas.

The Dayton Power & Light Co. said it had received 2,669 calls reporting power failure from the time the storm hit about 1:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Service was not completely restored until early this morning.

GOP To OK Lodge Appointment But Continue Raps at Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy can expect early and overwhelming Senate approval of his nomination of Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. as ambassador to South Viet Nam.

But there will be no accompanying guarantee that Republicans will soft pedal their criticism of administration Asian policies as a result.

In picking Lodge, the 1960 GOP vice presidential nominee, for the tough Saigon post, Kennedy demonstrated anew a tendency to dip into Republican ranks when there is a politically controversial job to fill.

Republicans Robert S. McNamara in defense and C. Douglas Dillon at the Treasury plug two Cabinet hot spots. Former GOP Secretary of State Christian A. Herter serves as the President's international trade negotiator. William C. Foster once a Westchester County, N.Y., GOP official, heads up the disarmament agency.

Republican John A. McCone runs the Central Intelligence Agency. In the past when the President needed an old hand for particularly difficult fencing with the Russians, he has called in John J. McCloy, another Republican.

These key appointees lend a shade of bipartisanship to areas where Kennedy would like a little less criticism and a little more cooperation from the Republicans.

With his selection of Lodge, Kennedy was keeping pace with precedents laid down by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Kennedy once offered former Vice President Richard M. Nixon a choice of appointments but the 1960 presidential loser wanted none.

There always is griping among Republicans when one of their number goes over to a Democratic administration. Dillon, for one, was looked upon as a political turncoat.

Death Penalty Law Changed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The mandatory death penalty for persons convicted of premeditated murder was abolished in New York State today.

Under a law effective today, the penalty for premeditated murder will be life imprisonment unless the jury, meeting in a separate session after returning a verdict, agrees unanimously on the death penalty.

New York thus became the last state in the nation to eliminate the mandatory death sentence in convictions for premeditated murder.

In the change, the state also has eliminated a long-standing distinction between first-degree murder—premeditated and felony.

"Felony murder" is the designation for a slaying committed during a crime, such as robbery or arson, and not necessarily premeditated. All persons who participate in the crime are subject to charges of first-degree murder, regardless of which one did the actual killing.

RFK Condemns Immoral Logic Of Bigotry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy declared today that segregation of privately owned businesses that serve the public is "one of the most embittering forms of racial discrimination," and asked Congress to outlaw it.

Testifying in behalf of a key provision of President Kennedy's civil rights package, the attorney general told the Senate Commerce Committee that such discrimination is an insult and humiliation to millions of American citizens.

Describing what he called "the immoral logic of bigotry," Kennedy said in his prepared statement:

"White people of whatever kind—even prostitutes, narcotics pushers, Communists or bank robbers—are welcome at establishments which will not admit certain of our federal judges, ambassadors and countless members of our armed forces."

He was questioned closely by Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., as to just what businesses would be covered by the bill, which would ban racial discrimination in privately owned establishments serving the public and substantially affecting interstate commerce.

For example, Kennedy said that whether a barbershop would be covered would depend on whether it serves interstate travelers to a substantial degree. He said he thought barbershops in hotels or bus and train terminals would be subject to the act. This also would be true of beauty shops, he said.

Kennedy said he didn't think the bill would apply to bowling alleys or pool halls, nor to laundries and dry cleaning establishments except under unusual circumstances. He said it would not apply to doctors, lawyers or others providing professional services.

Kennedy, generally following the same arguments he presented in testifying for the rights pack-

No Official Drought Aid Seen for Ohio

Word from the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office today pointed out that Ohio and Pickaway County have not been declared drought areas.

This is contrary to earlier stories which listed Ohio as one of 12 states in line for emergency drought assistance by the Agriculture Department.

Austin Dowden, local ASCS office manager, today said contact with his state office disclosed that there is no confirmed information that Ohio has been declared in the drought area as yet. He said the same held true after checks were made with Washington.

According to the local ASCS official, this means Ohio and Pickaway County are not eligible for drought aid at this time.

Irwin Man Injured In Truck Accident

John A. Skaggs, 54, Irwin, O., was injured seriously in a truck accident Saturday afternoon, three miles southeast of Mt. Sterling on Route 56.

Skaggs was listed in "serious" condition by Riverside Methodist Hospital authorities. He was transferred to the Columbus Hospital after receiving emergency treatment at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

The Pickaway County Sheriff's report of the accident listed the injuries as a multiple skull fracture and broken legs. A witness, Russell E. Penn, was in a car about one fourth of a mile behind Skaggs.

Penn told Deputies William Pontious and Warren G. Straley the empty truck driven by Skaggs first weaved toward the right ditch, then crossed over the road toward the left ditch.

It swerved back toward the middle, skidded a short distance and upset, rolling completely over, the witness indicated.

THE DRIVER was thrown out of the cab and his legs were pinned under the front corner of the truck bed. He was driving at a moderate rate of speed according to Penn. The truck was demolished. The accident was the first of a series investigated by the Pickaway County Sheriff's department. It was the only one involving injuries.

Early Saturday evening two mishaps, one at Williamsport and one on Route 72 five miles east of Ashville, occurred within an hour.

Embalmer Saves 'Dead' Woman, 80

WILLARD, Ohio (AP)—An 80-year-old woman, about to be embalmed Sunday night, was saved from that fate when the mortician noticed her breathing and sweating.

Mary Voight, who was pronounced dead at Willard Memorial Hospital, had been taken to the Fink Funeral Home. The funeral director, Walter Lindsey, caught the mistake in time.

She was taken back to the hospital, where she was reported near death today from the effects of a stroke suffered at home Sunday.

Dr. Richard Jackson said the woman had "lost all the vital signs—pulse, breathing and blood pressure. A sudden jolt on the way to the funeral home could have reactivated the vital signs."

age last week before a House subcommittee, said the administration bill to outlaw segregation in public accommodations would set no legislative precedent and deny no right except "the right to discriminate—so plainly a right to commit wrong."

In the Senate, the public accommodations provision is not only up against stiff opposition from Southerners who have denounced it as an assault on private property rights but it also lacks the support of Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

Dirksen has introduced a substitute bill that would rely on persuasion, rather than compulsion, to end discrimination in places catering to the public.

The attorney general said the private property argument "should be rejected as a smoke-screen."

"It would be far better if problems like this were handled by the state and local authorities, but in many areas where even so basic a right as voting is still frequently denied to Negroes, there is no hope in the near future that state and local authorities will act to eliminate this kind of discrimination," he said.

Contending that federal action is "emphatically necessary," Kennedy said:
"How can we say, to a Negro in Jackson (Miss.): 'when a war comes you will be an American citizen, but in the meantime you're a citizen of Mississippi and we can't help you.'"

Kennedy, in testifying before a House Judiciary subcommittee last week, indicated he might be willing to compromise on the public accommodations provision to the extent of exempting small business establishments.

He was called by the Senate Commerce Committee as the first witness on legislation to force desegregation of stores, restaurants, hotels, theaters and other privately-owned businesses serving the public.

This is just one part of the seven-point bill submitted to Congress, but it was introduced separately in the Senate in a strategic maneuver aimed at speeding action.

The complete package, including the public accommodations provisions, has been sent to the Senate Judiciary Committee headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., foe of civil rights measures.

Administration leaders don't expect any fast action by Eastland's committee. But they are looking to the Commerce Committee, under the chairmanship of Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., to move the public accommodations bill along without delay.

Magnuson said in a television interview Sunday that there may be some amendments, such as exempting smaller businesses, but predicted his committee would approve the basic provision of the administration's public accommodations bill.

Once this bill is brought before the Senate, other parts of the president's program could be offered as amendments to it. Or an alternative course would be to wait for the House to act on the whole package and then take it up when it reaches the Senate.

Assistant Senate leader Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota has said, "We cannot expect to get through the Senate any bill stronger than that the House votes."

Either way, a Southern filibuster probably will have to be overcome to get the legislation passed. To cut off debate and force a showdown will take a two-thirds majority of Senators voting.

Reluctant Peer Now Speaks Out

Anthony Wedgwood Benn (Viscount Stansgate).

By PAUL A. SHINKMAN
Written Exclusively for Central Press and This Newspaper

LONDON — The boyish man in a loose-fitting gray woolen pullover who jogged down the stairs to greet me certainly didn't look like a viscount. Actually, he was a viscount only under the unwelcome pressure of centuries of tradition.

The young man was the Honorable Anthony Wedgwood Benn who, at the death of his father in November 1960, fell heir to the hereditary title of Viscount Stansgate only because of the death of an older brother in action with the Royal Air Force during World War II.

I had come for an interview with the 37-year-old "Reluctant Peer" — as he is known around most of the world — who at last seems about to be relieved of the title that would have restricted his public career to the now relatively barren procedures of the House of Lords.

The issue came to a head when Benn petitioned first the House of Lords and then the House of Commons to amend the ancient law so that he might renounce his title and his seat in the House of Lords, thus remaining eligible to hold his seat in the House of Commons as the overwhelmingly supported representative of the district of Bristol (South East).

The thriving industrial city of Bristol had fought hard for its "favorite son" as its chosen representative in Parliament. They achieved the all-important first step when the House of Commons on May 30, 1963 (now a double Memorial Day for Anthony Benn's American wife), finally "published" the so-called Peerage Bill. The bill enables hereditary peers to renounce their titles for life and stand for election as commoners, thus qualifying them for membership in the House of Commons.

Old hands in the House believe the bill will pass easily.

I asked Benn to comment on the factors which have set in motion one of the most sweeping changes in the history of the "mother of parliaments."

"The different outlook between different generations is more important now than ever before," he said. "To the extent that I represent a younger generation, it has a general application to all societies."

"The rate of change now is so rapid that all policies and institutions tend to become obsolete at a faster rate, and if your institutions are obsolete, then the future for changing your policies simply does not operate properly."

"The great asset that younger people have is their freshness of approach and the fact that they are not tied by old habits of thought," Benn declared. "They take the world as they find it and think things out from there on."

"The thing that unites this new generation all over the world — the USSR, the United States, Asia, Africa, Britain and wherever else you may go — is it consciousness of the fact that it faces common dangers, and its realization that common dangers are much more important than a common heritage. These common dangers, which apply to both East and West, include nuclear war and world starvation."

"The great case for the United Nations," he continued, "is that it is the only body capable of expressing this common interest. The reason the U.N. has a chance of success is that we are witnessing the birth of Soviet-U.S. alliance which is based upon three principles:
"1 — Nuclear war would be a catastrophe for both countries.
"2 — Even if we can't disarm, we do not want nuclear weapons to spread to any one else.
"3 — It is most significant that Premier Khrushchev and the late Pope John XXIII arrived at the same point of view with regard to nuclear war. It is most important that this point of view be, and is supported by young people from all over the world."

In trying to bring Britain up to date, there is no desire to scrap everything. There is, however, a need to modernize such institutions as our system of education and our parliamentary system (notably the House of Lords), both of which are out of date. We need about five years of peaceful, but radical reform," he said.

"We see this task as part of a much bigger job of modernizing Britain. It is true that for centuries the members of the House of Lords have not held their seats because of experience but, rather, because of their birth certificates."

Benn, who has been fighting for the past 10 years to divest himself of the peerage he inherited, summed up his history-making crusade as follows: "Physical age doesn't have much to do with it. It is not just a question of old age. The

British Say Laos Peace Effort Fails

LONDON (AP) — The British government today disclosed the collapse of its efforts with the Soviet Union to consolidate the shaky international peace settlement in troubled Laos.

The British threw the whole problem of its disagreements with the Russians back to the countries that signed the 14-nation peace settlement of Laos in Geneva last year.

Britain and the Soviet Union are co-chairmen of the Laotian peace setup and in that capacity have had a special responsibility to see that terms of the settlement are fulfilled.

Announcing the development at a news conference, the Foreign Office said Foreign Secretary Lord Home wrote to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko June 27 expressing regret that they had been unable to agree.

Home's action followed the receipt of a message from Gromyko June 25, in which the Russian proposed that a British-Soviet message be sent to all the signatory states.

Gromyko's message would have laid most of the blame for the collapse of the Laotian peace efforts on the Laotian rightists, the United States and members of the eight-nation Southeast Asian Treaty Organization.

The Western view is that tension in Laos has been created by pro-Communist Pathet Lao attacks on positions held by neutral forces. The Russians deny this.

Police See Red At Farm Parade

PERPIGNAN, France (AP) — Riot police saw red Sunday when they tried to stop a farmers' protest parade.

About 2,000 fruit and vegetable growers joined in the demonstration protesting low prices and poor sales.

When police barred the route to the district government offices farmers pulled up two truckloads of tomatoes and started bombarding the officers. Police retaliated with tear gas.

The farmers also dumped several tons of tomatoes and apples on the road leading toward Spain. Traffic soon produced a slippery mixture and it took police three hours to sort out the resulting traffic jam.

The complete package, including the public accommodations provisions, has been sent to the Senate Judiciary Committee headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., foe of civil rights measures.

Administration leaders don't expect any fast action by Eastland's committee. But they are looking to the Commerce Committee, under the chairmanship of Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., to move the public accommodations bill along without delay.

Magnuson said in a television interview Sunday that there may be some amendments, such as exempting smaller businesses, but predicted his committee would approve the basic provision of the administration's public accommodations bill.

Once this bill is brought before the Senate, other parts of the president's program could be offered as amendments to it. Or an alternative course would be to wait for the House to act on the whole package and then take it up when it reaches the Senate.

Assistant Senate leader Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota has said, "We cannot expect to get through the Senate any bill stronger than that the House votes."

Either way, a Southern filibuster probably will have to be overcome to get the legislation passed. To cut off debate and force a showdown will take a two-thirds majority of Senators voting.

Reluctant Peer Now Speaks Out

Anthony Wedgwood Benn (Viscount Stansgate).

By PAUL A. SHINKMAN
Written Exclusively for Central Press and This Newspaper

LONDON — The boyish man in a loose-fitting gray woolen pullover who jogged down the stairs to greet me certainly didn't look like a viscount. Actually, he was a viscount only under the unwelcome pressure of centuries of tradition. The young man was the Honorable Anthony Wedgwood Benn who, at the death of his father in November 1960, fell heir to the hereditary title of Viscount Stansgate only because of the death of an older brother in action with the Royal Air Force during World War II.

I had come for an interview with the 37-year-old "Reluctant Peer" — as he is known around most of the world — who at last seems about to be relieved of the title that would have restricted his public career to the now relatively barren procedures of the House of Lords.

The issue came to a head when Benn petitioned first the House of Lords and then the House of Commons to amend the ancient law so that he might renounce his title and his seat in the House of Lords, thus remaining eligible to hold his seat in the House of Commons as the overwhelmingly supported representative of the district of Bristol (South East).

The thriving industrial city of Bristol had fought hard for its "favorite son" as its chosen representative in Parliament. They achieved the all-important first step when the House of Commons on May 30, 1963 (now a double Memorial Day for Anthony Benn's American wife), finally "published" the so-called Peerage Bill. The bill enables hereditary peers to renounce their titles for life and stand for election as commoners, thus qualifying them for membership in the House of Commons.

Old hands in the House believe the bill will pass easily. I asked Benn to comment on the factors which have set in motion one of the most sweeping changes in the history of the "mother of parliaments."

"The different outlook between different generations is more important now than ever before," he said. "To the extent that I represent a younger generation, it has a general application to all societies."

"The rate of change now is so rapid that all policies and institutions tend to become obsolete at a faster rate, and if your institutions are obsolete, then the future for changing your policies simply does not operate properly."

"The great asset that younger people have is their freshness of approach and the fact that they are not tied by old habits of thought," Benn declared. "They take the world as they find it and think things out from there on."

"The thing that unites this new generation all over the world — the USSR, the United States, Asia, Africa, Britain and wherever else you may go — is it consciousness of the fact that it faces common dangers, and its realization that common dangers are much more important than a common heritage. These common dangers, which apply to both East and West, include nuclear war and world starvation."

"The great case for the United Nations," he continued, "is that it is the only body capable of expressing this common interest. The reason is that we are witnessing the birth of Soviet-U.S. alliance which is based upon three principles:

"1 — Nuclear war would be a catastrophe for both countries.

"2 — Even if we can't disarm, we do not want nuclear weapons to spread to any one else.

"3 — It is most significant that Premier Khrushchev and the late Pope John XXIII arrived at the same point of view with regard to nuclear war. It is most important that this point of view be, and is supported by young people from all over the world."

In trying to bring Britain up to date, there is no desire to scrap everything. There is, however, a need to modernize such institutions as our system of education and our parliamentary system (notably the House of Lords), both of which are out of date. We need about five years of peaceful, but radical reform," he said.

"We see this task as part of a much bigger job of modernizing Britain. It is true that for centuries the members of the House of Lords have not held their seats because of experience but, rather, because of their birth certificates."

Benn, who has been fighting for the past 10 years to divest himself of the peerage he inherited, summed up his history-making crusade as follows: "Physical age doesn't have much to do with it. It is not just a question of old age. The

British Say Laos Peace Effort Fails

LONDON (AP) — The British government today disclosed the collapse of its efforts with the Soviet Union to consolidate the shaky international peace settlement in troubled Laos.

The British threw the whole problem of its disagreements with the Russians back to the countries that signed the 14-nation peace settlement of Laos in Geneva last year.

Britain and the Soviet Union are co-chairmen of the Laotian peace setup and in that capacity have had a special responsibility to see that terms of the settlement are fulfilled.

Announcing the development at a news conference, the Foreign Office said Foreign Secretary Lord Home wrote to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko June 27 expressing regret that they had been unable to agree.

Home's action followed the receipt of a message from Gromyko June 25, in which the Russian proposed that a British-Soviet message be sent to all the signatory states.

Gromyko's message would have laid most of the blame for the collapse of the Laotian peace efforts on the Laotian rightists, the United States and members of the eight-nation Southeast Asian Treaty Organization.

The Western view is that tension in Laos has been created by pro-Communist Pathet Lao attacks on positions held by neutral forces. The Russians deny this.

Police See Red At Farm Parade

PERPIGNAN, France (AP) — Riot police saw red Sunday when they tried to stop a farmers' protest parade.

About 2,000 fruit and vegetable growers joined in the demonstration protesting low prices and poor sales.

When police barred the route to the district government offices farmers pulled up two truckloads of tomatoes and started bombarding the officers. Police retaliated with tear gas.

The farmers also dumped several tons of tomatoes and apricots on the road leading toward Spain. Traffic soon produced a slippery mixture and it took police three hours to sort out the resulting traffic jam.

Try, Try Again

BENSON, Ariz. (AP) — School officials in Benson are determined to try once more to gain voter approval of a $300,000 bond issue.

Several months ago the proposal was beaten by eight votes. A second election was called. This time the issue lost by one vote.

basic challenge is: How can we modernize our centuries - old institutions? I think I have been giving my own answers to that question for the past 10 years!"

U.S. Gives Boot To Soviet Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has ordered expulsion of a Russian diplomat here on grounds that he was engaged in a form of espionage, informed sources said today.

The State Department called in the ranking Soviet diplomat here this morning, presumably to inform him of the ouster.

The man involved in the purported espionage was not identified.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey declined comment for the time being. He said an announcement is expected later today, but declined to say what it would be.

Columbus Postal Chief Dies at 69

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Postmaster Allen M. Rowe, 69, who apparently planned to retire Dec. 1, died today. Death was believed to be from a heart attack.

Rowe had been postmaster since 1949. He would have reached the mandatory retirement age Nov. 1, but could have applied for a one-year-renewal of his appointment. Another post office official said Rowe issued a private memorandum in January, saying he intended to retire Dec. 1.

Though darts, Agnes, but the skags around here are hairy. No need to get clutched, but the doppy PTAs tell any fem who isn't studely to flake off. It would be enough to rot your socks if the boy wasn't so yippy sippy.

Don't bother rubbing your eyes or cleaning your glasses, the above is English. Not dictionary English, to be sure, but one of these days it might find its way into reorded language. These words are being uttered by today's teenagers, or haven't you noticed?

Translated, the above gibberish means: That's too bad, kid, but the creeps around here are wild. "Creep", of course, is a throwback to the stone age of 1950 meaning show-off or other undesirable. Nothing could be more revealing of the trend of the times than the daily obituaries. Most follow a similar pattern. After announcement of the passing there comes a list of survivors, and the organizations to which the departed belonged.

Seldom is his occupation chronicled. It seems that his importance in life is determined by his prowess as a joiner. The longer the list, the bigger the headline.

Because most adults are "untouchables" to teenagers, perhaps you haven't many occasions to hear teen-talk. Just as the New England twang and Southern drawl are distinctly different, so, too, does the region of the country affect the teenager's dialect. Thus, a "skag" in Virginia and Texas becomes a "scab" in Honolulu and a "waste" in Cincinnati.

Somehow, though, no matter where a teenager goes, he soon manages to learn the language. Adults who have marveled at this phenomenon might wonder if it isn't more the tone of voice or emphasis than the utterance. But just to ask a member of the younger set for an explanation is sufficient to bring forth a look of exasperation and a new addition to the vocabulary.

Let's face it. The cool cats of yesterday are the squares of today, with emphasis.

worthy citizen. They fail to reveal how he stood with his neighbors. Had he always been thoughtful and kind? Did his children watch for his homecoming with pleasant anticipation?

Of course, if he has been important enough in life to rate inclusion in Who's Who's he gets a real sendoff. But if his life has been made up of simple virtues, his obituary suffers because of it. The moral seems to be, to achieve more than brief mention at passing, become a joiner.

Freedom Day

The Fourth of July is dedicated to the ideal of freedom as is no other holiday ever conceived by man. When Patrick Henry rose in the Virginia convention of March, 1775, and said, "Give me liberty or give me death," he expressed the ideal that kept his fellow patriots fighting for six years until they chanted the glorious song of victory.

Up to that time the world had been ruled by kings, emperors, the heads of armies, and other mighty ones of the earth. The individual was considered to have few rights. If he said what he thought he frequently forfeited his liberty or his life.

The earth's wise men dreamed of a day when men and women would be free. Many of them died to aid that cause, and gradually the seed of freedom began to grow in the minds of the people.

It grew most rapidly in the American colonies. The harsh tyrannies which held the masses of Europe enslaved were less easy to apply in the great expanses of this land.

Truths distilled at Philadelphia nearly two centuries ago are outstanding in America's spiritual stock. It may be too much to expect so virgorous a people to observe the meaning of the Fourth of July in solemnity, but that meaning is sufficiently entrenched in their minds and hearts to make this land a light in the world where liberty is threatened with the blanket of totalitarian tyranny.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

SID CAESAR, star of "Little Me" and one of the funniest comedians ever seen on TV, is, in private life, a reader of serious books, and a man who prefers being at home with his family in Long Island to hitting the night spots and shining in cafe society.

Caesar's greatest temperamental outburst of the season was directed at a horse. The steed bolted one morning and threw Caesar's wife from the saddle. Caesar overtook the horse — and punched it in the nose! When he calmed down, he was asked if the horse had seemed surprised. After reflection, he replied, "It seemed to shake him up pretty good!"

Lovers of archaic words will be interested to hear that around Harvard Lampoon headquarters this season it is unfashionable to use the phrase, "Up hill and down dale." The way Lampooners put it, it is "up tump and down dingle."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Pyrorrhea continues to be the most common cause for the loss of teeth. The statistical figures for the total absence of teeth after the age of 40 in America emphasize that neglect is the responsible culprit.

Pyrorrhea is a disease of the gums and soft tissues and bone around the teeth. It is not a disease of the teeth.

The causes of pyorrhea are many.

Irritation of the gum margins by deposits of tartar, bad alignment of the bite of the teeth, improper restoration work and food impactions are the major causes. Sometimes infections of the soft tissue around the teeth may reflect the general health of the individual.

Diabetes, nephritis and vitamin deficiencies are associated with changes in the gums. Factory workers exposed to lead paints and heavy metals frequently have trouble with their gums.

The earliest signs of pyorrhea may be redness of the gums and pain while chewing. Blood may be noticed during brushing.

Later, food becomes impacted between the teeth as the gums begin to recede. The underlying bone structures become thin and weakened and cause the teeth to loosen.

Now all the offending factors seem to merge and to continue their devastating attack, which eventually leads to the loss of teeth.

The early recognition of pyorrhea and early active dental treatment offer the only hope for the preservation of these teeth.

Energetic treatment for pyorrhea is devoted to the removal of every one of the obvious causes. Infections of the soft tissue are

The Business World

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—What does the new labor agreement hold for the steel industry?

That was the main question in business circles this week.

Production was being cut back since the possibility of a strike had disappeared.

There was talk of a need for new steel price increases.

Steel output declined last week for the fourth consecutive week, dropping 1.5 per cent from the previous week to 2,426,000 tons. Another fall was expected this week.

Users and service centers had built their supplies to about 17.35 million tons, or about 4 million tons above normal. The buildup was not as high as expected because consumption remained at a high peak.

An industry publication, Iron Age, expressed the opinion that the effect of last week's labor agreement on the steel market will be fairly severe but will be considerably milder than that experienced in 1962.

Estimates of the drop in new orders this month range from 20 to 30 per cent.

A factor in favor of the industry is that the business outlook remains good and the level of steel consumption should hold up.

Some steel executives argued that the need for additional price relief was increased by the new agreement.

Cost of the pact, which will remain in force until May 1965 was variously estimated at 12 to 15 cents an hour.

The United Steelworkers Union turned next to the aluminum industry where it seeks to work out a pact similar to that reached with the steelmakers. The unprecedented agreement, reached with-

Solons Meet in Greece

This week-end a world conference of lawyers is meeting in Athens, Greece, to drum up support for "world peace through law". With an irony that may or may not have been intended, the lawyers — who are assembling from a hundred nations — have specified that they are attending "in their private capacity and not as representatives of their governments."

The lawyers' disclaimer of government support is apt, for governments in this modern age of paradox have made a record for lawlessness that must appall any law-abiding average citizen. And the super-organization of the governments, the United Nations, which should be extremely careful to support "world peace through law," has been the worst offender of all.

Take, for example, the role the UN played in bowing to crude force when Indonesia's ineffectual Sukarno sent his guerrillas and saboteurs into the Dutch territory of West New Guinea. The Sukarno subversion was undertaken back in 1962 without the shadow of an invitation from the 700,000 inhabitants of New Guinea, most of whom are Papuans who are still close to the culture of the Stone Age. Yielding to the threat of force, the United States watched benignly while former Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, acting for the UN's Secretary General U Thant, worked out an agreement which put the Dutch out of New Guinea and turned the place over to a "UN administration" that includes many Indonesians in key positions. The underlying population of New Guinea won't get a chance to vote on their own future until 1969, when the UN promises a plebiscite. This gives Sukarno six years in which to fasten his grip on the poor Papuans.

Then there is the record of the UN General Assembly in promoting discord in Portuguese Angola, which has been harassed by illegal invasions from the Congo. Without waiting for a plebiscite of any sort, the General Assembly adopted a resolution rapping Portugal over the knuckles

Adults who have marveled at this phenomenon might wonder if it isn't more the tone of voice or emphasis than the utterance. But just to ask a member of the younger set for an explanation is sufficient to bring forth a look of exasperation and a new addition to the vocabulary.

Let's face it. The cool cats of yesterday are the squares of today, with emphasis.

worthy citizen. They fail to reveal how he stood with his neighbors. Had he always been thoughtful and kind? Did his children watch for his homecoming with pleasant anticipation?

Of course, if he has been important enough in life to rate inclusion in Who's Who's he gets a real sendoff. But if his life has been made up of simple virtues, his obituary suffers because of it. The moral seems to be, to achieve more than brief mention at passing, become a joiner.

It grew most rapidly in the American colonies. The harsh tyrannies which held the masses of Europe enslaved were less easy to apply in the great expanses of this land.

Truths distilled at Philadelphia nearly two centuries ago are outstanding in America's spiritual stock. It may be too much to expect so virgorous a people to observe the meaning of the Fourth of July in solemnity, but that meaning is sufficiently entrenched in their minds and hearts to make this land a light in the world where liberty is threatened with the blanket of totalitarian tyranny.

SID CAESAR, star of "Little Me" and one of the funniest comedians ever seen on TV, is, in private life, a reader of serious books, and a man who prefers being at home with his family in Long Island to hitting the night spots and shining in cafe society.

Caesar's greatest temperamental outburst of the season was directed at a horse. The steed bolted one morning and threw Caesar's wife from the saddle. Caesar overtook the horse — and punched it in the nose! When he calmed down, he was asked if the horse had seemed surprised. After reflection, he replied, "It seemed to shake him up pretty good!"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Pyorrhea continues to be the most common cause for the loss of teeth. The statistical figures for the total absence of teeth after the age of 40 in America emphasize that neglect is the responsible culprit.

Pyorrhea is a disease of the gums and soft tissues and bone around the teeth. It is not a disease of the teeth.

The causes of pyorrhea are many. Irritation of the gum margins by deposits of tartar, bad alignment of the bite of the teeth, improper restoration work and food impactions are the major causes.

Sometimes infections of the soft tissue around the teeth may reflect the general health of the individual.

Diabetes, nephritis and vitamin deficiencies are associated with changes in the gums. Factory workers exposed to lead paints and heavy metals frequently have trouble with their gums.

The earliest signs of pyorrhea may be redness of the gums and pain while chewing. Blood may be noticed during brushing.

Later, food becomes impacted between the teeth as the gums begin to recede. The underlying bone structures become thin and weakened and cause the teeth to loosen.

Now all the offending factors seem to merge and to continue their devastating attack, which eventually leads to the loss of teeth.

The early recognition of pyorrhea and early active dental treatment offer the only hope for the preservation of these teeth.

Energetic treatment for pyorrhea is devoted to the removal of every one of the obvious causes. Infections of the soft tissue are application of medicines. Food, debris and tartar are removed from gum pockets. Massage and thorough expert scraping are important parts of this technique. When necessary, simple and painless surgical procedures are used to help eliminate badly diseased pockets.

Of course the general health and nutrition must be maintained by proper diet and vitamin supplements when necessary.

When the gums, the periodontal tissue and bone are returned to normal, then the rehabilitative and corrective approach to the teeth must be actively begun. The replacement and restoration of teeth so that the biting surfaces will be properly aligned is most important for the preservation of teeth.

Because pyorrhea is not associated with great pain, people delay going to their dentist. This explains why pyorrhea is a disease of neglect. And the longer this condition is neglected, the less likely is the eventual preservation of the teeth.

It is foolhardy to think of treatment for pyorrhea as a luxury that can wait. Unlike painful abscesses which affect a single tooth, pyorrhea can involve every tooth in your mouth. Neglected pyorrhea can undermine your total health.

The great advances in dentistry make possible the preservation of teeth in all ages. It is no longer the rarity for even the elderly to have their own teeth if preventive dentistry has been practiced throughout their lifetime.

To keep your teeth, to preserve the attractive dental image, consult your dentist regularly. He is your investment in good health.

The Business World

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—What does the new labor agreement hold for the steel industry?

That was the main question in business circles this week. Production was being cut back since the possibility of a strike had disappeared.

There was talk of a need for new steel price increases.

Steel output declined last week for the fourth consecutive week, dropping 1.5 per cent from the previous week to 2,426,000 tons. Another fall was expected this week.

Users and service centers had built their supplies to about 17.35 million tons, or about 4 million tons above normal. The buildup was not as high as expected because consumption remained at a high peak.

An industry publication, Iron Age, expressed the opinion that the effect of last week's labor agreement on the steel market will be fairly severe but will be considerably milder than that experienced in 1962.

Estimates of the drop in new orders this month range from 20 to 30 per cent.

A factor in favor of the industry is that the business outlook remains good and the level of steel consumption should hold up.

Some steel executives argued that the need for additional price relief was increased by the new agreement.

Cost of the pact, which will remain in force until May 1965 was variously estimated at 12 to 15 cents an hour.

The United Steelworkers Union turned next to the aluminum industry where it seeks to work out a pact similar to that reached with the steelmakers. The unprecedented agreement, reached without formal negotiations, provides for 13 weeks vacation every five years for half the work force and improved insurance and other benefits. There was no wage increase.

In the automobile industry, where heavy usage of steel is expected to ease the end of stockpiling, production remained at a high pitch. Output this week was estimated at 169,400 against 170,689 last week and 126,521 a year ago.

A good sign, according to economists, was the gain in new orders for machine tools in May for the fourth consecutive month. The total was 25 per cent above May 1962.

Construction contracts in May spurred to a new all-time high of $4,850,522,000, a 21 per cent increase over May 1962. All major construction and building categories contributed to the gain.

Solons Meet in Greece

By John Chamberlain

This week-end a world conference of lawyers is meeting in Athens, Greece, to drum up support for "world peace through law". With an irony that may or may not have been intended, the lawyers—who are assembling from a hundred nations—have specified that they are attending "in their private capacity and not as representatives of their governments."

The lawyers' disclaimer of government support is apt, for governments in this modern age of paradox have made a record for lawlessness that must appall any law-abiding average citizen. And the super-organization of the governments, the United Nations, which should be extremely careful to support "world peace through law," has been the worst offender of all.

Take, for example, the role the UN played in bowing to crude force when Indonesia's ineffectual Sukarno sent his guerillas and saboteurs into the Dutch territory of West New Guinea. The Sukarno subversion was undertaken back in 1962 without the shadow of an invitation from the 700,000 inhabitants of New Guinea, most of whom are Papuans who are still close to the culture of the Stone Age. Yielding to the threat of force, the United States watched benignly while former Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, acting for the UN's Secretary General U Thant, worked out an agreement which put the Dutch out of New Guinea and turned the place over to a "UN administration" that includes many Indonesians in key positions. The underlying population of New Guinea won't get a chance to vote on their own future until 1969, when the UN promises a plebiscite. This gives Sukarno six years in which to fasten his grip on the poor Papuans.

Then there is the record of the UN General Assembly in promoting discord in Portuguese Angola, which has been harassed by illegal invasions from the Congo. Without waiting for a plebiscite of any sort, the General Assembly adopted a resolution rapping Portugal over the knuckles for "refusal to recognize the legitimate aspirations of the Angolan people to self-determination and independence." Well, maybe the Angolans would like to be free of Portugal, but the quarrel, if there is a quarrel, is an internal one involving two constituent parts of a legitimate UN member nation. By an extension of current UN logic, the Anglo-Saxon Canadians are due for a good birching in the General Assembly for refusing to recognize the "legitimate aspirations" to "self-determination and independence" of the French-Canadian minority of Quebec.

Even in Britain's home island there are Scottish and Welsh nationalists who might claim support for secession sentiments in the UN General Assembly.

The poor Portuguese, of course, got it in the neck when Nehru's India, a UN member, grabbed the Portuguese colony of Goa, a small enclave that menaced India about as much as a flea menaces a dog. The Indians had a case for the "liberation" of Goa, for it is obvious that the sun has long since set on the day of the colonialist in the Indian subcontinent. Nevertheless, Nehru's government used force, not law, in working its will in tiny and unimportant Goa.

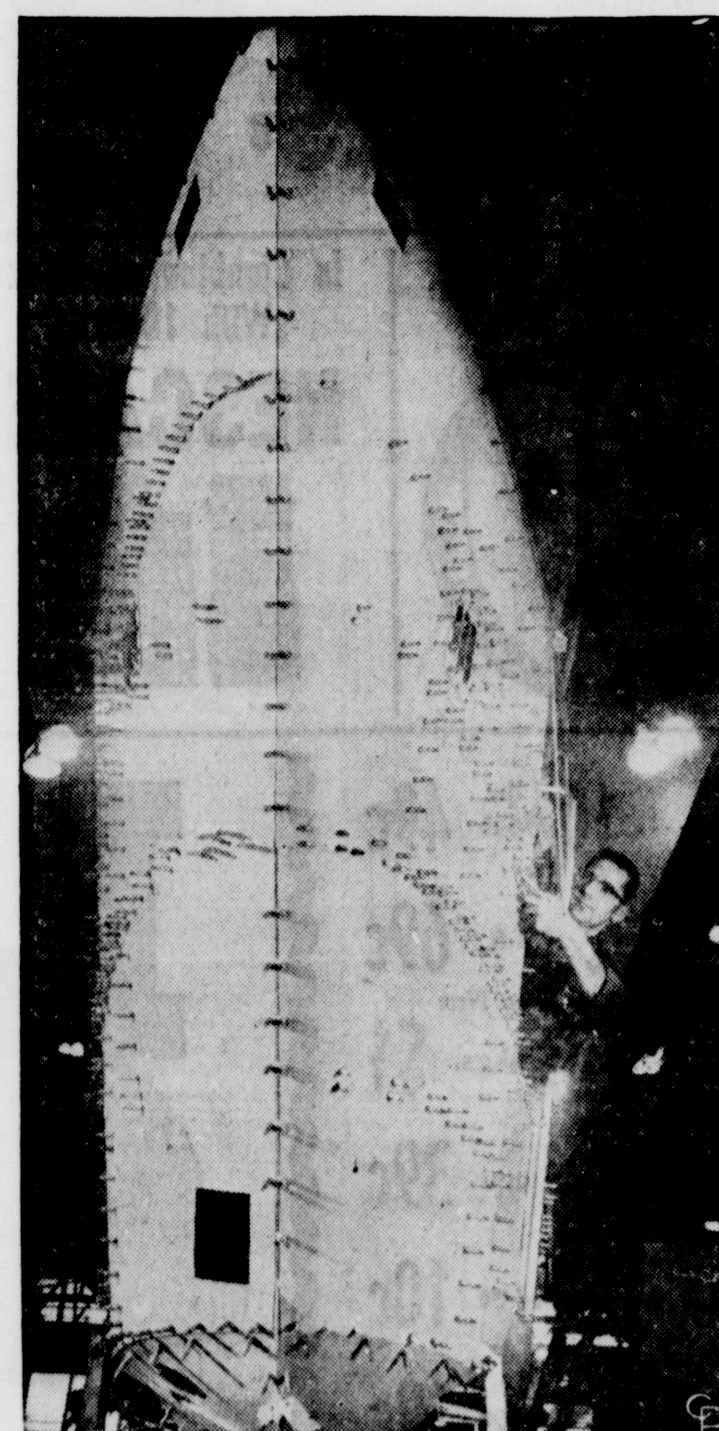

The legality of the UN action in using force to compel Moise Tshombe's Katanga to remain a part of the centralized Congo state will be debated by the historians for many a long year. Whether the UN invasion of Katanga was legal or not, the lawyers meeting at Athens might profitably debate the subject of consistency in applying international principle. Sometimes the UN backs "self-determination," and sometimes it doesn't. As Artemus Ward might say, it's most confousing.

Another item that might engage the attention of the lawyers is Fidel Castro's lawlessness toward the people of Cuba. Fidel came to power in Havana by promising a huge coalition of anti-Batista forces a return to the Cuban Constitution of 1948. Once he had made himself solid in office, however, Fidel tore every vestige of the legitimate Cuban Constitution to shreds. True enough, Fidel's behavior inside Cuba might not be considered a proper subject for debate before a conclave of international lawyers. But if Cuba had the government-in-exile that it deserves, Fidel's actions would be a legitimate international concern.

The lawyers could take up some interesting problems this coming week in Athens. One hopes that the discussions won't all take place in a sterile atmosphere of "high-level" refinement.

CANTILEVERED DECK — Built-in benches reduce the necessity for cumbersome movable chairs for this deck built on a steep slope.

Build Deck For Outdoor Fun in Sun

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Deck the house!

It's a word of advice for you home owners who really want to enjoy all the delights of outdoor living.

Do it with a sundeck!

Why?

Here are two good reasons.

1. You can build a deck for a fraction of the cost that would be involved in an interior remodeling job.
2. It's something that will provide you with a second living area from spring through autumn.

You might, for example, wish to add a deck as an outdoor extension of the living room. Placed at the same level as the floor indoors, the deck would facilitate foot traffic and create the feeling of flowing space.

A deck designed with barbecue and dining facilities should, if possible, be built close to the kitchen. This minimizes the chore of carrying food and tableware outside.

On the other hand, a sundeck may be best located in a secluded corner of the yard that's quiet and peaceful for sunning or reading.

For privacy, you may wish to add a free-standing wood screen or fence paneling to shut off a view of the street or the neighbor's yard.

Whatever type deck you decide on, remember that it should appear as an integrated part of the house — not as an afterthought. Match the deck to the style of the house and to the colors used for its exterior.

PRETTY PATIENT — Handy pocket of bedside kit holds cosmetics. Gay bonnet hides pin-curls.

Cosmetics Prescribed For Patients

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Let's hope you're never hospitalized for anything more serious than the arrival of a cute and cuddly income tax deduction. But whatever the reason for a hospital stay, you'll find the most comforting bedside companion you can have is a kit filled with good grooming aids.

It's Rx for beauty, because prettying-up does marvels for morale. And, as any doctor will tell you, good spirits count for much when you're feeling mighty low.

Neatest bedside aid of all is a roomy kit with pockets for cosmetics and such that's always within easy reach. It's designed with a flap that slips between mattress and springs, so the pockets hang at the side of the bed where you can reach them handily.

Use the kit to stow away items you use often — powder, lipstick, cologne and the like. Other aids, for major beautifying projects, can be kept in a zipper bag in your night table drawer.

What sort of aids are handy to have when you're hospitalized? Any cosmetic that will make you look better and, consequently, feel better.

Here are a few suggestions.

Take along a liquid cleaner. There's one that works magic in two minutes, leaving the skin clear, clean, soft and smooth. It's easy to use, too!

Consider a facial mask. It passes time between visiting hours and passes it profitably. There's nothing like a mask to make you feel you're doing something really constructive about your appearance.

Dusting powder will leave your skin silky and after-bath lotion with a floral fragrance is just the thing to pick you up after the nurse has sponged you off.

To keep hair pretty, a powder shampoo that can be used without water is handy. So are rollers for setting curls, a spray to hasten drying and a fancy curler cap to cover your hairwork while hair sets.

You'll probably want to give yourself a manicure, so pack a new quick-drying polish and a supply of polish remover pads. The latter take up little space and are so easy to use.

Don't forget a full supply of all the make-up required to paint a pretty face. Rouge may be especially valuable if you're looking wan and washed-out — but be sure to blend it carefully so that it appears natural.

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buran

Let Him HEAR You!

DEAR ABBY: I am 30, married and nothing special to look at. I've been called the "wholesome" type. Last week my husband and I were playing bridge in the home of another couple. My husband went out to our car to get something, and the other woman went into the kitchen and, without warning, the husband grabbed me, held me close and tried to kiss me! I was shocked but managed to cover up without making a scene. I thought I made it plain that I did not go in for that sort of thing. Last night we four went to a movie. While walking down the dark aisle, I felt someone pinch me—but good! I thought it was my husband at first, but soon discovered it was this man again. I did not invite these advances and don't like it. How can I let him know how I feel without hurting his wife?

DEAR WHOLESALE: He knows how you FEEL—you have to let him know how you THINK. When you have about 20 seconds alone with him tell him if he doesn't cut out the monkey business you'll tell his wife. And if your husband is bigger than he is—tell him you'll tell your husband.

DEAR ABBY: Last week my 17-year-old son went to a doctor because of a skin condition. He is supposed to go again next week, but he refuses. My husband finally got it out of him. It seems that the doctor wanted him to have a lamp treatment. He had to lie under some lamps for about ten minutes without any clothes on at all. The nurse was in the room the whole time. He was terribly embarrassed by this because the nurse was about 25. So that's why he refuses to go back. I think we should call the doctor and ask him if he can't give the treatment himself from now on. My husband says our son is just being stubborn and we should make him go. He said the doctor will think we are crazy if we call and ask him to change the way he does things in his office. We three have been fighting over this all week. What do you think?

A YOUNG MAN'S MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Call the doctor and explain. He'll understand.

DEAR ABBY: Re that paperboy who signed himself DISGUSTED WITH PEOPLE because someone took newspapers from his honor rack and dropped buttons, paper clips and slugs into the slot instead of money: You appealed to the public to be honest on the grounds that it's the newspaper who's getting cheated—not the newspaper company, it is less reprehensible to cheat the newspaper company than it is to cheat the newsboy?

EMPHYSEMA

Q. Please discuss emphysema. Is it a progressive disease and can its progress be stopped?

A. The term emphysema (pronounced em'fi-see'muh) is derived from the Greek word "emphysan," meaning to blow in. Pulmonary emphysema is a condition in which the air sacs of the lungs become dilated or enlarged. The chronic condition may be due to chest deformity, chronic lung infection, chronic asthma, and similar conditions. Much can be done for the relief of symptoms of chronic emphysema but it isn't a condition which lends itself to anything but good medical care. See your physician.

LOW BLOOD PRESSURE BETTER THAN HIGH

Q. I have low blood pressure. What can I take or do to improve it?

A. You are very fortunate! Thousands of persons would give all they own to have low blood pressure. It's true that you may feel under par at times but the chances are good that you will avoid disorders that go with high blood pressure. Everything considered, your chances of a long life may be better than average.

CANTILEVERED DECK — Built-in benches reduce the necessity for cumbersome movable chairs for this deck built on a steep slope.

Build Deck For Outdoor Fun in Sun

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Deck the house!
It's a word of advice for you home owners who really want to enjoy all the delights of outdoor living.

Do it with a sundeck!
Why?

Here are two good reasons.

1. You can build a deck for a fraction of the cost that would be involved in an interior remodeling job.

2. It's something that will provide you with a second living area from spring through autumn.

You might, for example, wish to add a deck as an outdoor extension of the living room. Placed at the same level as the floor indoors, the deck would facilitate foot traffic and create the feeling of flowing space.

A deck designed with barbecue and dining facilities should, if possible, be built close to the kitchen. This minimizes the chore of carrying food and tableware outside.

On the other hand, a sundeck may be best located in a secluded corner of the yard that's quiet and peaceful for sunning or reading.

For privacy, you may wish to add a free-standing wood screen or fence paneling to shut off a view of the street or the neighbor's yard.

Whatever type deck you decide on, remember that it should appear as an integrated part of the house — not as an afterthought. Match the deck to the style of the house and to the colors used for its exterior.

Miss Collins is a graduate of Paintsville High School and will graduate this month from Mayo State Business College.

Mr. Dumm is a graduate of Laurelville High School, attended Franklin University, and is presently a senior at Mayo State Technical School.

Mrs. Hinton to Host Salem WCTU Friday

Mrs. Ed Hinton, Kingston, will host members of the Salem WCTU 2 p. m. Friday.

If your baking powder biscuits never have brown enough tops to suit your family, dip the cut out biscuits in melted butter or margarine before putting them in the oven. If the biscuits are to accompany the main course of a meal, they can have a sprinkling of paprika.

Count on four pounds of corned beef, weight before cooking, serving eight when it is offered hot. If it is offered cold and sliced thin with a substantial salad you'll increase the servings.

Ever add a little chili powder to canned baked beans in tomato sauce? You can add a dash of cumin, too, if you like that seasoning.

PRETTY PATIENT — Handy pocket of bedside kit holds cosmetics. Gay bonnet hides pin-curls.

Cosmetics Prescribed For Patients

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Let's hope you're never hospitalized for anything more serious than the arrival of a cute and cuddly income tax deduction. But whatever the reason for a hospital stay, you'll find the most comforting bedside companion you can have is a kit filled with good grooming aids.

It's Rx for beauty, because prettifying does marvels for morale. And, as any doctor will tell you, good spirits count for much when you're feeling mighty low.

Neatest bedside aid of all is a roomy kit with pockets for cosmetics and such that's always within easy reach. It's designed with a flap that slips between mattress and springs, so the pockets hang at the side of the bed where you can reach them handily.

Use the kit to stow away items you use often — powder, lipstick, cologne and the like. Other aids, for major beautifying projects, can be kept in a zipper bag in your night table drawer.

What sort of aids are handy to have when you're hospitalized? Any cosmetic that will make you look better and, consequently, feel better.

Here are a few suggestions. Take along a liquid cleanser. There's one that works magic in two minutes, leaving the skin clear, clean, soft and smooth. It's easy to use, too!

Consider a facial mask. It passes time between visiting hours and passes it profitably. There's nothing like a mask to make you feel you're doing something really constructive about your appearance.

Dusting powder will leave your skin silky and after-bath lotion with a floral fragrance is just the thing to pick you up after the nurse has sponged you off.

To keep hair pretty, a powder shampoo that can be used without water is handy. So are rollers for

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — A shattering Russian-Red Chinese split, something the most cunning Western statesmen could not have engineered, seems certain now, perhaps this week.

If this doesn't drive Russia closer to the West, at least it will force her to divert more of her thinking and resources to coping with Red China in Asia and elsewhere.

This will be the best break for the allies since the cold war began. But it doesn't mean world peace is any closer or that the Atlantic partners will have sense enough to make the most of the crack in the enemy camp.

On the contrary, they may start cutting capers of their own until they, too make a mess of themselves.

They stood together solidly enough when they felt intense pressure and danger from Russia. When Premier Khrushchev seemed to relax, they began to relax and to assert their ancient nationalism, which was exactly the basic cause of the Russian-Chinese split.

French President de Gaulle buffeted both the United States and Britain in what seems to be his dream of a French grandeur which belonged in another century. It is his way of trying to establish new French leadership in Europe.

He barred Britain from the European Common Market challenged America's loyalty to its allies if they were attacked, and, using this for an excuse, is making his own nuclear weapons over American protests.

This is probably only the beginning of the allies' problems with one another. But if all these problems melted tomorrow, the Russian-Red Chinese split still wouldn't bring world peace closer.

Last week Secretary General U Thant of the United Nations guessed the Chinese Communists would explode their first atomic bomb this year or next. They have been working on it for years with little or no help from Russia.

Just as De Gaulle is unwilling to let the United States have a monopoly on nuclear weapons in the West, the Red Chinese are unwilling to let Russia have a monopoly in the East.

Differences between the two Communist giants, growing worse by the year, recently became so bad that the meeting they arranged for next Friday in Moscow to discuss them may wind up in an explosion.

Meanwhile, the United States and Britain had arranged to meet in the same place with the Russians July 15 to discuss a nuclear test ban. There's not much optimism about the outcome of that, either.

A triple dubiety — with the United States, Russia and Red China all distrusting one another — is hardly a happy foundation for a test ban agreement between the United States and Russia, even if one could be reached.

There would still be the Red Chinese to think about.

Would they agree not to test, just because the United States and Russia had agreed not to? Hardly.

Would the United States and Russia, if they could reach agreement, keep it if they saw the Red Chinese testing? It isn't likely.

The Red Chinese complaint that the Russians aren't aggressive enough is probably a thin excuse for deeper discontents: their rival nationalisms, their eventual conflict over living space in Asia, and Russia's skimpy help to the Red Chinese before and after they took power.

All in all the Russian-Red Chinese split could be a turning point in history for the West, something to cheer about, but the Western partners will probably find ways to offset this by causing themselves trouble if the Communists don't.

The Three Days of GETTYSBURG

Gen. Meade ☆☆☆☆☆☆ Gen. Lee

Artist's conception of Pickett's heroic charge at Gettysburg.

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first of three articles.

By JERRY KLEIN
Compiled and Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

The greatest and most decisive battle ever to take place on American soil was fought just 100 years ago this week. Starting on July 1, 1863, it raged for three days and decided that the Union would remain inseparable.

The Confederate Army of Northern Virginia, 75,000 men, led by Gen. Robert E. Lee, invaded Pennsylvania and threatened to move on Washington. They were met by the Army of the Potomac, 85,000 troops under Gen. George G. Meade, at a crossroads community called Gettysburg.

More than 35,000 Americans, of both North and South, were to be killed or wounded in this historic fray. For a century, war experts have analyzed every detail of the battle's strategy. But this three-part series concerns not military tactics, but the little, half-forgotten events — courageous, inspiring, human and sometimes humorous — that make up the larger meaning of the entire War Between the States.

A Gettysburg newspaper, just before the great battle, carried an advertisement placed by haberdasher R. F. McIlheny offering "Spring styles of hats and caps... Boots and shoes comprising men's fine calf boots, balmorals, wellingtons, gaiters and brogans."

Confederate General Heth sent a brigade to get the much-needed hats and shoes. However, the Rebels encountered Yankee cavalry outside of town. As more and more units arrived in the area, the fighting increased — and the Battle of Gettysburg began.

As the Confederates marched toward Gettysburg, they passed through roads along which loyal Northern women waved small Union flags and taunted them by singing "The Star Spangled Banner." But the Rebel commander, General Lee, was such a strong and dignified figure that one girl declares, "Oh, I wish he was ours!"

As the 14th Tennessee Regiment was moving toward the battlefield during the night, a man started to sing "Home Sweet Home" in the quiet darkness. With great gentleness, he and his comrades went on to sing "Swanee River," "Old Kentucky Home" and other melodies expressing their love of the South, climaxed by "Dixie." Said one writer, "The effect was indescribable. The sweetness and beauty of it all may never be duplicated in song or scene."

A century has passed, but historians still debate the causes of the Confederate defeat, though there is considerable agreement that Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee was not as alert and aggressive in this battle as usually.

One notion is that July 1, 1863, found the general feeling poorly as the result of eating too many flapjacks — a favorite dish — the evening before.

Lee liked his pancakes "thin as a wafer and big nearly as a cartwheel... with fresh butter and maple molasses and folded layers thick." Such ingredients had been scarce for a long time in the Confederacy, but advancing into Pen-sylvania, his cook found it to be a land "flowing with milk and honey and other good things edible."

On the eve of battle, the cook outdid himself, the flapjacks were "too tempting, the general ate too plentifully, was sick accordingly, and Gettysburg was lost."

A Gettysburg woman went to General Lee to tell him that local families would soon be out of flour and asked his help. The Rebel commander arranged for the flour and also gave the woman his autograph, after a discussion of the war, saying to her, "It is to your interest to be for the Union, and I hope you may be as firm in your principles as I am in mine." The woman later recalled how Lee had described the war as "a cruel thing," expressing the desire "to go home and eat his bread there in peace."

The first soldier killed on the Gettysburg battlefield was a veteran of only one week's service, A. Northernner, his name was George D. Sandoe.

Gettysburg was Northern territory, but there was a local youth named Wesley Culp who held Confederate sentiments and so became a member of the Virginia Infantry. The Southern invasion of Pennsylvania enabled young Culp to visit his mother, but he could stay for just a few minutes before rejoining his company. Two days later, within sight of his birthplace, death came to the Yankee who believed in the cause of the Confederacy — and he was "home to stay."

Battle of Gettysburg Recalled

Union, Confederates Clash On Eve of Decisive Conflict

EDITOR'S NOTE — One hundred years ago one of history's climactic battles was fought in the rolling countryside outside a small Pennsylvania town called Gettysburg. Here is the way a reporter on the scene might have covered the events which led up to one of the bloodiest military engagements of all time.

By TOM HENSHAW
GETTYSBURG, July 1, 1863 (AP)—Advance units of the Union and Confederate armies clashed by accident around this small South-Central Pennsylvania town today.

The outnumbered Federal forces were driven back into defensive positions on high ground south of Gettysburg, a town of 2,400 some 65 miles north of Washington.

A major battle was forecast for tomorrow as Maj. Gen. George G. Meade, the new commander of the Army of the Potomac, ordered most of his 88,000 men into the battlefield.

The top available strength of the Confederate Army of Northern Virginia, under the command of Gen. Robert E. Lee, is reported to be some 75,000 men.

An estimated 36,000 Union troops and 46,000 Confederates took part in today's fighting, which raged until early evening through the streets of Gettysburg and across ridges and wheat fields west of town.

Losses were high, particularly on the Federal side. The Union 1st and 11th Corps were reported decimated. The Iron Brigade lost 1,200 of 1,800 men. The 24th Michigan suffered 80 per cent casualties.

Maj. Gen. John F. Reynolds, 42, of Lancaster, Pa., commander of the Union forces in the field, was killed by a sniper. Brig. Gen.

James J. Archer, 46, a Maryland man serving in the Southern army, was captured.

The fighting began about 5:30 a.m. when the 13th Alabama regiment, advancing on Gettysburg from the west to forage for shoes, ran into a picket post of Brig. Gen. John Buford's Union Cavalry Division.

Buford's cavalry, fighting on foot, held off the Confederate infantry division of Maj. Gen. Henry Heth on a ridge a mile west of town until Reynolds' 1st Corps of Infantry arrived and charged into the fray.

Union artilleryman Augustus Buell described the fighting like this: "Up and down the line men were reeling and falling; splinters flying from wheels and axles where bullets hit; in rear, horses tearing and plunging, drivers yelling, shells bursting, shots shrieking overhead howling about our ears or throwing up great clouds of dust where they struck."

"But not a man or boy flinched or faltered."

Shortly after noon, Maj. Gen. Oliver O. Howard's 11th Army Corps marched in from the south and was immediately engaged by the first units of Lt. Gen. Richard S. Ewell's Confederate corps, coming from the north.

Howard's corps, the smallest in the Army of the Potomac with less than 10,000 men, broke after heavy fighting and fled through the town. A Union officer gave a graphic account of the scene.

"The confusion was great," he said. "The Confederates poured valley after valley into the compact mass (of fleeing men). A sudden panic arose. Our regiment headed into an alley."

"Unfortunately, it offered no way out except a very narrow doorway, but the enemy had already piled up a barrier of dead Union soldiers in its front, and two-thirds of the regiment was lost."

The flight of Howard's corps uncovered the right flank of Reynolds' corps, now led by Maj. Gen. Abner Doubleday, and Doubleday's men retreated to stronger defensive positions on Cemetery Ridge, south of town.

The Union rout was stemmed by the arrival of Maj. Gen. Winfield S. Hancock, 39, of Montgomery Square, Pa., who was sent by Meade to take command in the field after the death of Reynolds.

Tonight as the two great armies gather for the impending battle, the Union defensive line resembled a fishhook with its shaft running along Cemetery Ridge, its hook turning around Cemetery Hill, where the shattered remnants of Howard's corps awaits reinforcement.

Across a graceful valley, on a ridge called Seminary, Lee is massing his army for the assault.

MIO Unit Receives Unusual Requests

Two MIO staffers check one of the maps from the agency's voluminous files.

By HARRY KURSH
Central Press Association
Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Asking for a detailed map of the Moon, the space buff, in a written request to officials here, thought the reply might be good for a laugh. It was. But chances are the laugh was on him.

His letter was passed on to the Map Information Office. The space buff was told that for $1 he could obtain Miscellaneous Geologic Investigations Map I-355, which happens to be the first of a series of Moon maps being prepared by the U. S. Geological Survey for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The unique Moon map shows the geologic details of approximately 100,000 square miles of the Moon's surface known as the Kepler Region, more than enough for any space buff to play with.

Actually, if the mail order prankster had known anything at all about the Map Information Office he would have guessed that his request for a Moon map would not have been unusual. Every year, the MIO receives thousands of queries for information about maps and is rarely stumped for an answer.

A college freshmen, for example, once asked MIO for a map that would help him select "the best hunting and fishing route through New York's Hudson Valley, especially containing small streams."

The youth was advised where and how to obtain a series of U. S. Geological Survey topographical maps, inexpensive engineering marvels showing just about every feature to be found on almost any chunk of land in the U. S.

The official map office, itself a unit of the U. S. Geological Survey, began as a one-man operation in Washington about 44 years ago. Its aim was, as it is now, to help other government agencies and ordinary citizens locate specific information that might be found in any one of millions of maps, charts, surveys and aerial photographs produced in America.

Today, an MIO staff of about 30 experts handles an average of some 100,000 requests annually.

Perhaps the most popular requests for information concern the topographical maps, which are used by arm-chair travelers, Sunday hikers, veteran guides, home owners and engineers to locate land features not shown on any other map.

To those interested in topographical maps, ideal even for backwoods navigation, the MIO will send a free index, which shows the areas of the U. S. covered by such maps and how they may be obtained.

Because aerial photographs are basic to most maps, many Americans are surprised to learn that through the MIO they can find out where and how to purchase photographs showing what their homes and communities look like from the air.

No other government agency in the world provides this kind of service, which is a major reason that ours is known as an "open society."

Says J. O. Kilmartin, MIO chief, "The immensity of this task becomes clear when it is realized that recently, in one year, aerial photography was procured for a number of areas totaling about one million square miles, and that the cumulative records account for more than 11 million square miles of photography, enough to cover all of the United States more than three times."

Warren Police Dog Use Is Defended

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Police Chief Manley R. English has defended proposed use of police dogs by Warren police in reply to protests by the Trumbull County Catholic Council of Human Relations and the Warren branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. "There are probably more persons bitten by family dogs within one week in Warren than there were bitten during the entire incident in Birmingham, Ala. when police dogs were used on mob control," English said Friday.

Tavern Operators Cited for Hearing

Operators of an area tavern have been cited to appear before the Ohio Liquor Control Commission on charges of an illegal sale.

Scheduled to appear are Alma and Amos Marshall, doing business as the Oaks Tavern at Route 2, Ashville. The Liquor Control Commission will hear cases this week against 43 permit holders.

Cincy Youth Is Stabbed; Police Arrest 2 Boys

CINCINNATI (AP) — Roscoe McGeorge, 18, was in serious condition at General Hospital early today after being stabbed in the stomach with a three-inch knife blade.

McGeorge told police he and a companion were walking along a West End street when one of two other youths said something. McGeorge said he asked if they were talking to him and one of them stabbed him. Police held the two youths on an open charge.

No. Change Made

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) Retirement made little difference to L. C. Gardner.

A teacher for 53 years, Gardner, 70, volunteered as a teacher for the Peace Corps. He taught English for 38 years at Louisville Male High.

Because aerial photographs are basic to most maps, many Americans are surprised to learn that through the MIO they can find out where and how to purchase photographs showing what their homes and communities look like from the air.

No other government agency in the world provides this kind of service, which is a major reason that ours is known as an "open society."

Says J. O. Kilmartin, MIO chief, "The immensity of this task becomes clear when it is realized that recently, in one year, aerial photography was procured for a number of areas totaling about one million square miles, and that the cumulative records account for more than 11 million square miles of photography, enough to cover all of the United States more than three times."

Warren Police Dog Use Is Defended

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Police Chief Manley R. English has defended proposed use of police dogs by Warren police in reply to protests by the Trumbull County Catholic Council of Human Relations and the Warren branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"There are probably more persons bitten by family dogs within one week in Warren than there were bitten during the entire incident in Birmingham, Ala. when police dogs were used on mob control," English said Friday.

Tavern Operators Cited for Hearing

Operators of an area tavern have been cited to appear before the Ohio Liquor Control Commission on charges of an illegal sale.

Scheduled to appear are Al M. and Amos Marshall, doing business as the Oaks Tavern at Route 2, Ashville. The Liquor Control Commission will hear cases this week against 43 permit holders.

Cincy Youth Is Stabbed; Police Arrest 2 Boys

CINCINNATI (AP) — Roscoe McGeorge, 18, was in serious condition at General Hospital early today after being stabbed in the stomach with a three-inch knife blade.

McGeorge told police he and a companion were walking along a West End street when one of two other youths said something. McGeorge said he asked if they were talking to him and one of them stabbed him. Police held the two youths on an open charge.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, July 1 the 182nd day of 1963. There are 183 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1863, the Civil War Battle of Gettysburg began. Seventy-five years later, in 1938, the 1,800 survivors of the United Confederate Veterans and the Grand Army of the Republic met at the famed tableside in their last reunion.

On this date: In 1847, the first U.S. postage stamps were placed on sale in New York City.

In 1898, Theodore Roosevelt led his Rough Riders in the Battle of San Juan Hill in Cuba during the Spanish-American War.

In 1924, daily airmail service was inaugurated between New York and San Francisco.

In 1940, Adolf Hitler's Nazi forces captured the Latvian capital of Riga during World War II.

In 1957, the Mayflower II—replica of the Pilgrim ship—reached New York City after a voyage from Plymouth, England.

Ten years ago, West Berlin officials reported that 467 East German People's Police fled into western sectors during the month of June.

Five years ago, Secretary of State Dulles expressed the view that the presence of United Nations observers in Lebanon had made some headway in restoring order to that country.

One year ago, Algerians voted overwhelmingly in favor of independence in a nationwide referendum, ending 132 years of French rule.

Battle of Gettysburg Recalled

Union, Confederates Clash On Eve of Decisive Conflict

EDITOR'S NOTE — One hundred years ago one of history's climactic battles was fought in the rolling countryside outside a small Pennsylvania town called Gettysburg. Here is the way a reporter on the scene might have covered the events which led up to one of the bloodiest military engagements of all time.

By TOM HENSHAW

GETTYSBURG, July 1, 1863 (AP) — Advance units of the Union and Confederate armies clashed by accident around this small South-Central Pennsylvania town today.

The outnumbered Federal forces were driven back into defensive positions on high ground south of Gettysburg, a town of 2,400 some 65 miles north of Washington.

A major battle was forecast for tomorrow as Maj. Gen. George G. Meade, the new commander of the Army of the Potomac, ordered most of his 88,000 men into the battlefield.

The top available strength of the Confederate Army of Northern Virginia, under the command of Gen. Robert E. Lee, is reported to be some 75,000 men.

An estimated 36,000 Union troops and 46,000 Confederates took part in today's fighting, which raged until early evening through the streets of Gettysburg and across ridges and wheat fields west of town.

Losses were high, particularly on the Federal side. The Union 1st and 11th Corps were reported decimated. The Iron Brigade lost 1,200 of 1,800 men. The 24th Michigan suffered 80 per cent casualties.

Maj. Gen. John F. Reynolds, 42, of Lancaster, Pa., commander of the Union forces in the field, was killed by a sniper. Brig. Gen.

James J. Archer, 46, a Maryland man serving in the Southern army, was captured.

The fighting began about 5:30 a.m. when the 13th Alabama regiment, advancing on Gettysburg from the west to forage for shoes, ran into a picket post of Brig. Gen. John Buford's Union Cavalry Division.

Buford's cavalry, fighting on foot, held off the Confederate infantry division of Maj. Gen. Henry Heth on a ridge a mile west of town until Reynolds' 1st Corps of Infantry arrived and charged into the fray.

Union artilleryman Augustus Buell described the fighting like this:

"Up and down the line men were reeling and falling; splinters flying from wheels and axles where bullets hit; in rear, horses tearing and plunging, drivers yelling, shells bursting, shots shrieking overhead howling about our ears or throwing up great clouds of dust where they struck."

"But not a man or boy flinched or faltered."

Shortly after noon, Maj. Gen. Oliver O. Howard's 11th Army Corps marched in from the south and was immediately engaged by the first units of Lt. Gen. Richard S. Ewell's Confederate corps, coming from the north.

Howard's corps, the smallest in the Army of the Potomac with less than 10,000 men, broke after heavy fighting and fled through the town. A Union officer gave a graphic account of the scene.

"The confusion was great," he said. "The Confederates poured volley after volley into the compact mass of (fleeing men). A sudden panic arose. Our regiment headed into an alley."

"Unfortunately, it offered no way out except a very narrow doorway, but the enemy had already piled up a barrier of dead Union soldiers in its front, and two-thirds of the regiment was lost."

The flight of Howard's corps uncovered the right flank of Reynolds' corps, now led by Maj. Gen. Abner Doubleday, and Doubleday's men retreated to strong defensive positions on Cemetery Ridge, south of town.

The Union rout was stemmed by the arrival of Maj. Gen. Winfield S. Hancock, 39, of Montgomery Square, Pa., who was sent by Meade to take command in the field after the death of Reynolds.

Tonight as the two great armies gather for the impending battle, the Union defensive line resembled a fishhook with its shaft running along Cemetery Ridge, its hook turning around Cemetery Hill, where the shattered remnants of Howard's corps awaits reinforcement.

Across a graceful valley, on a ridge called Seminary, Lee is massing his army for the assault.

Pickaway Scouts Will Enjoy Greenhills Activity This Week

HUNGRY SCOUTS — The only thing hungrier than a Boy Scout is six Scouts and their leader. For a nominal fee, scouts are provided with fresh meat and all the trimmings which they prepare themselves. The price includes every facility at the camp with the exception of tents for sleeping. Pickaway County Scouts will be at the camp this week.

MULES AND FRIENDS — Two Columbus boys seem to enjoy their animal friends at the new Greenhills Boy Scout camp, four miles south of Logan. The mules are used by each troop to carry supplies. The 13 campsites are hilly.

CANOERS — Two Scouts launch a canoe at 1,200-acre Camp Greenhills in Hocking County. The camp site was purchased from A. W. Marion, a Circleville native and the first director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources. The A. W. Marion State Park here (Hargus Lake) was renamed and dedicated in his honor. Lake Byron, where the youths are launching the canoe, is the first of three that will be at the camp when it is eventually completed. The boys are under the watchful instruction of trained counselors.

TROOP, NOT TRIBE — At Greenhills, Scouts from neighboring Union, Franklin, Delaware, Madison, Fayette, Highland, Hocking and Fairfield counties can engage in many activities, such as Tee-Pee making, burro packing, swimming, rope tying, model camp demonstrations, handicrafts, miles of nature trails, arrow shooting, rifle range and leaf printing.

Farm Roundup
Hogs Lead
Small Farm
Price Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hogs led the general farm prices to a small increase between mid-May and mid-June, as prices farmers paid for goods and services remained unchanged.

But wheat prices took an 18-per cent tumble, largely in response to the 1963 crop loan price support, which will be $1.82 a bushel compared with $2 for last year's crop.

With farmers stabilizing hog production at last year's level, and with a decline in marketings during late May and early June, hog prices advanced 12 per cent. But prices of beef cattle held unchanged.

The price actions were reported by the Agriculture Department in a market survey yesterday which said farm prices as a whole in mid-June were at 77 per cent of the parity price goal of federal farm programs, the same as a month earlier and compared with 78 per cent a year ago.

The mid-June farm price level was 1 per cent above a year earlier. This level was 241 per cent of the 1910-14 base average. The level of prices paid by farmers was at a record high, 311 per cent of the 1910-14 average.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Live-stock farmers continue to buy heavily of young, unfattened feeder cattle and calves despite the relatively unfavorable prices of slaughter cattle.

An Agriculture Department livestock market review said today that current price levels for feeder cattle as compared with those for slaughter cattle are not favorable for profitable feeding operations.

"But apparently many feeders are hopeful that slaughter cattle prices will advance during the coming month," the review said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Soil Conservation Service reported today more than twice as much farm land in the Great Plains was damaged by wind

2 Ohio Congressmen Doubt
Kennedy Tax Relief To Get OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Ohio House members voiced doubt today that Congress will pass President Kennedy's tax reduction bill this year.

Rep. Clarence J. Brown R-Ohio said indications from the leadership of both the Republicans and Democrats are that chances of passage of a tax cut bill before Jan. 1 are questionable.

Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio expressing the same doubt said Congress was "strangled by its own ineptness."

Both Brown and Ashley said the civil rights controversy which may tie Congress in knots later in the session, is one of the main reasons for the possible delay in tax legislation.

Brown, a member of the House Rules Committee which must clear bills to the House floor for action, indicated that the Rules Committee will not block the tax bill if the Ways and Means Committee completes action on it.

As to his own views on Kennedy's proposal to reduce taxes by a net of some $10 billion over a three-year period, Brown said he believes "the first responsibility is to reduce government spending."

"We should not go out and spend more with resulting deficit financing," Brown said.

There is no question Brown said, that the upcoming battle in Congress over civil rights will have its effect on passage of other important legislation.

"I believe in civil rights," Brown said. "There is no trouble in Ohio on that. We have the best relations on civil rights in my district of any place in the country." Brown's district the 7th, covers Logan, Union, Champaign, Clark, Madison, Greene, Warren, and Clinton counties.

Ashley said he doubts that the erosion during the year ending May 31 than a year earlier.

Acres damaged during the past 12-month period totaled 3,049,000 acres compared with 1,43,000 in the previous period. Damage this past year included 1,891,000 acres in the southern Great Plains and 115,700 in the northern Great Plains.

Colorado suffered the most with damage to 1,050,000 acres. North Dakota was next with 687,000 and Texas third with 393,000.

How Weather
Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

At daybreak today, there was considerable fog and haze around Ohio. The temperatures were generally in the high 50s and low 70s.

Cincinnati and Youngstown reported the lowest with readings of 66, Cleveland and Zanesville had 68 and Toledo and Columbus 70. The morning weather map shows the same stagnant high pressure area covering the eastern third of the nation. A frontal zone runs from Lake Superior to the central Great Plains states and into Colorado.

Precipitation in the form of scattered thundershowers are indicated for this afternoon and again Tuesday afternoon.

The scattered thundershowers Sunday covered less than half of the state. The heaviest rains reported were 1.25 inches at Dayton and 1.03 at Lithopolis in Fairfield County.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS
NORTHERN OHIO — Temperatures will average two to five degrees above normal. Normal high 83 normal low 61-65. Cooler and less humid Wednesday and Thursday, warmer again Friday and thundershowers Tuesday again Friday and Saturday, with precipitation averaging one-fourth to one-half inch.

SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO —Temperatures will average two to six degrees above normal. Normal high 83-88, normal low 61-67. Continued warm remainder of week. Isolated thundershowers Tuesday, again near weekend, average rainfall one-fourth inch or less.

About 48 thousand U.S. air travelers used the Lisbon airport in 1962.

LOOKS LIKE A WINNER — This troop from Columbus is leaving something to be remembered in this homemade tower. The boys gathered the wood from the 1,200-acre forest around them. Local Pickaway County Scouts will have a chance to participate in these typical scout activities this week at Greenhills.

Police Benefactor

HONOLULU (AP) — The board of supervisors for Hawaii County turned down Police Chief Anthony Paul's request for new uniforms.

But the cops will get their new togs after all.

An anonymous benefactor has donated $10,000 to buy the 101-man Hawaii Island police force new brown-and-tan lightweight outfits to replace their hot olive drabs.

"We don't know who the donor is," said Glen Ada, Police Commission chairman. "But it's a fine gesture."

New Yorker Named Head

CINCINNATI (AP)—Joseph R. Shaw of Albany, N.Y., succeeds Bern Wright of West Virginia today as chairman of the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission (ORSANCO). Barton Hall of Logan, Ohio, will succeed Shaw as vice chairman.

June Drops Redlegs to Fourth Place

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—June was a month that began well but ended ill for the Cincinnati Reds, and today young Jim Maloney will try to get July off to a good start.

San Francisco home runs and three Cincinnati errors helped the Giants defeat the Reds 7-3 Sunday. Six of the runs were unearned. The defeat dropped the Reds to fourth place, four games behind National League leading St. Louis.

The Reds won 19 games and lost 12 last month. Five of the defeats occurred since they came to the West Coast a week ago. They won their first two games in June.

Jim O'Toole (13-5) was in trouble from the start Sunday. Harvey Kuenn led off in the first inning with a single. Jose Pagan flew out. Then the Giants filled the bases on errors by Leo Cardenas and Pete Rose. But only one run scored, on a sacrifice fly.

Manager Fred Hutchinson lifted O'Toole for a pinch hitter in the seventh and sent in Al Worthington to continue the pitching duel with Billy Pierce, who had not won a game since opening day.

The first San Francisco batter was Ed Bailey. Ken Walters dropped his fly ball for a two-base error. After Matty Alou fouled out, Pierce singled. He was forced by Kuenn, but a double play failed and Bailey scored. Kuenn stole second and went to third as Pagan singled off Worthington's glove. McCovey's safety brought Kuenn across, making the score 4-1. At that point Mays hit a homer to make it 7-1.

Injury List Fails To Cool Indian Tribe

CLEVELAND (AP)—Despite a crop of crippling injuries, the Cleveland Indians did a lot of jumping in June by winning 23 games and losing only a dozen for a sizzling .657 pace.

It was a month in which the Indians proved their versatility, stamina and spirit in the face of the physical battering they took.

The Indians got two-run homers from Max Alvis, Mike de la Haza and Woodie Held to run their winning streak to four with an 8-4 victory over the White Sox in Chicago Sunday. The Sox won the second game, 4-0.

Gabe Paul, Cleveland's general manager, was well satisfied by the record of the grueling road trip to Boston and Chicago. The Indians lost four out of five in Boston and appeared to be heading for a bad slump. But they won the final game of that series and then grabbed three straight from Chicago with fine pitching.

"I'm pleased that was a fine trip, all things considered," said Paul. "Birdie Tebbetts has said right along that if we can keep our heads above water until we recuperate we should be all right."

The Indians have an off day today before heading off into four home games with Boston and four more with New York. The Tribe is six games behind the league-leading Yankees.

Chillicothe Unit Hands Saving Bank 29-2 Loss

The previously undefeated Babe Ruth minor league leaders, Savings Bank, was trounced in an exhibition tilt with the Elks Pony League team from Chillicothe, 29-2, yesterday.

Johnson was the winning Elks hurler, lasting for five innings. He was replaced in the fifth by Manion, who was helped in the sixth by Brightenball.

Johnson gave up two hits, fanned and walked four. Manion allowed one hit and whiffed one. Brightenball permitted two hits, fanned two and walked five.

Dave Massie started and lost for the Savings crew, giving 25 hits, fanning five and walking six. Dick Woodward helped him in the seventh and gave up two hits and fanned two.

For the Elks, Taylor had a homer, Blankman had a triple and Murray had a double.

Woodward and Massie each had two singles.

These two teams will play another game Sunday at Chillicothe. The local team will leave Ted Lewis Park at 12:30 p. m.

Fourteen of the 25 players with the Detroit Tigers attended college.

Circleville Baseball Program Needs Both Players, Umpires

Bill Thomas, president of the Circleville Youth Baseball Program, Inc., has issued an appeal for players and umpires.

"Players in the 10, 11 and 12-year age bracket are needed badly in the little League minors," Thomas said today. "With vacation time here, many of the teams are having difficulty fielding teams."

A total of 137 youngsters originally registered and were assigned to teams in the minor circuit. However, dropouts have dropped the number to 110 participants in the 10-team loop.

With just 11 players or less on a team, vacations create a problem for the managers. If a team is unable to field the required number its forfeits the game, providing the opposing team has enough players present.

ONE CONTEST in the program, this year was rescheduled when neither team appeared with nine players.

Youngsters interested in playing should contact Roy Farmer, GR 4-3592. They will be immediately placed on a team and can be playing before the week is over, according to Thomas.

"Umpires have always been a problem," Thomas said in issuing an appeal for the "men in blue."

The local baseball program is one of the few that is completely free to the youngsters who participate. In many cities they have to pay a slight fee. This money is used to pay umpires. Here volunteers handle the officiating.

With as many as eight games scheduled in one night, there has never been a surplus of umpires locally.

Mosquito League managers attempted to solve the problem by having assistant managers officiate the games. But the system has not proved satisfactory.

IT IS THIS division of the program, the 8 and 9-year-olds, that the greatest need is currently felt. Thomas said anyone interested in calling any of the games should contact either Bob Wellington, coordinator of the program, or call GR 4-2968.

"The Circleville Youth Baseball Program provides supervised recreation for more than 500 youngsters, and is one of the largest organizations of its type for a community the size of Circleville," Thomas pointed out.

Dolph Schayes leads National Basketball Association players in most points scored during regular season games with 19,115 tallies.

Atlanta Still Hot In IL Flag Chase

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Five idle days removed none of the sting from Doug Clemens' bat and it took no zing from the ancient arm of Atlanta relief pitcher Sam Jones.

The Crackers, Southern Division leaders in the International League, swept a doubleheader Sunday from Buffalo, 2-1 and 20-2, in their first baseball activity in six days. Clemens slugged three homers and Jones was the winning pitcher in both games after 7-2 innings of hitless relief pitching.

In other IL games Sunday, Indianapolis swept Jacksonville 14-2 and 8-7. Rochester trimmed Richmond 3-1 and 10. Syracuse won its first game against Toronto, 7-3, but dropped the nightcap 6-5, and Columbus whipped Arkansas 6-1 in the second game after the Travelers had won the opener 8-5.

Chillicothe Unit Hands Saving Bank 29-2 Loss

The previously undefeated Babe Ruth minor league leaders, Savings Bank, was trounced in an exhibition tilt with the Elks Pony League team from Chillicothe, 29-2, yesterday.

Johnson was the winning Elks hurler, lasting for five innings. He was replaced in the fifth by Manion, who was helped in the sixth by Brightenball.

Johnson gave up two hits, fanned and walked four. Manion allowed one hit and whiffed one. Brightenball permitted two hits, fanned two and walked five.

Dave Massie started and lost for the Savings crew, giving 25 hits, fanning five and walking six. Dick Woodward helped him in the seventh and gave up two hits and fanned two.

For the Elks, Taylor had a homer, Blankman had a triple and Murray had a double.

Woodward and Massie each had two singles.

These two teams will play another game Sunday at Chillicothe. The local team will leave Ted Lewis Park at 12:30 p. m.

Fourteen of the 25 players with the Detroit Tigers attended college.

Circleville Baseball Program Needs Both Players, Umpires

Bill Thomas, president of the Circleville Youth Baseball Program, Inc., has issued an appeal for players and umpires.

"Players in the 10, 11 and 12-year age bracket are needed badly in the little League minors," Thomas said today. "With vacation time here, many of the teams are having difficulty fielding teams."

A total of 137 youngsters originally registered and were assigned to teams in the minor circuit. However, dropouts have dropped the number to 110 participants in the 10-team loop.

With just 11 players or less on a team, vacations create a problem for the managers. If a team is unable to field the required number its forfeits the game, providing the opposing team has enough players present.

ONE CONTEST in the program, this year was rescheduled when neither team appeared with nine players.

Youngsters interested in playing should contact Roy Farmer, GR 4-3592. They will be immediately placed on a team and can be playing before the week is over, according to Thomas.

"Umpires have always been a problem," Thomas said in issuing an appeal for the 'men in blue.' The local baseball program is one of the few that is completely free to the youngsters who participate. In many cities they have to pay a slight fee. This money is used to pay umpires. Here volunteers handle the officiating.

With as many as eight games scheduled in one night, there has never been a surplus of umpires locally.

Mosquito League managers attempted to solve the problem by having assistant managers officiate the games. But the system has not proved satisfactory.

IT IS THIS division of the program, the 8 and 9-year-olds, that the greatest need is currently felt. Thomas said anyone interested in calling any of the games should contact either Bob Wellington, coordinator of the program, or call GR 4-2968.

"The Circleville Youth Baseball Program provides supervised recreation for more than 500 youngsters, and is one of the largest organizations of its type for a community the size of Circleville," Thomas pointed out.

Dolph Schayes leads National Basketball Association players in most points scored during regular season games with 19,115 tallies.

Atlanta Still Hot In IL Flag Chase

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Five idle days removed none of the sting from Doug Clemens' bat and it took no zing from the ancient arm of Atlanta relief pitcher Sam Jones.

The Crackers, Southern Division leaders in the International League, swept a doubleheader Sunday from Buffalo, 2-1 and 20-2, in their first baseball activity in six days. Clemens slugged three homers and Jones was the winning pitcher in both games after 7 2-3 innings of hitless relief pitching.

In other IL games Sunday, Indianapolis swept Jacksonville 14-2 and 8-7. Rochester trimmed Richmond 3-1 and 10, Syracuse won its first game against Toronto, 7-3, but dropped the nightcap 6-5, and Columbus whipped Arkansas 6-1 in the second game after the Travelers had won the opener 8-5.

Circleville Legion Dumped From District Tournament

The Circleville American Legion junior baseball team was dumped from the district tournament, losing to Washington C. H., 2-1, on Saturday and to Chillicothe, 14-8, Sunday.

The games were played at the Veteran's Hospital diamond near Chillicothe.

In the Saturday tilt, the Hall-Adkins nine scored in the third inning and held a 1-0 lead until the final frame.

Two hits and a walk and an error let the Washington team score the tying and the winning run.

BOB PURCELL scored the Circleville run when he led off the third with a single, went to second on an error and then came home on Chet Iery's single.

Washington's southpaw hurler Mike Burris handcuffed the locals on four hits, all singles, fanned six and walked only one.

George Reeser, the loser, scattered seven singles. He fanned four and walked two.

In yesterday's game, a 12-run first inning was the undoing of the local team. Starter Mick Hunt was touched for seven hits in the first frame. Five errors added to the Chillicothe attack.

Reeser, coming on in relief, gave up two runs in the final inning on three hits.

Edward (Ned) Miller of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., will captain Dartmouth's tennis team next spring.

Harold Smith had to hurl for two innings as the score was one up in the seventh. Smith allowed two hits, a triple and a single, in winning the contest.

Losing thrower, Chuck Plum, also gave up two hits. They were a triple and a single, but he was the victim of his own walks.

Jim Ballou also tripled in this tilt and Smith socked the single. Bill Huber and Mack Shaw scored the two runs.

Jim Sawyer tabbed the losing triple, and Larry Boltenhouse clubbed the single and scored.

8 Pro Football Rookies Show Excellent Prospects

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The first test of the pro football rookies of 1963 points to eight as good bets to make the grade.

They are Hugh Campbell and Kermit Alexander of the San Francisco 49ers, Lee Roy Jordan of the Dallas Cowboys, George Saimes and Darryle Lamonica of the Buffalo Bills, John Mickey of the Baltimore Colts, Pat Richter of the Washington Redskins and Bill Nelsen of the Pittsburgh Steelers as good bets to make the grade.

On the basis of their showing in Saturday night's All-America game won by the West 22-21 over the favored East, Lynn Griffing of the New York Giants, Thunder Thornton of the St. Louis Cardinals, Larry Ferguson of the Detroit Lions, Dave Robinson of the Green Bay Packers and Ray Mansfield, Ronnie Goodwin and Nate Ramsey of the Philadelphia Eagles also appear to have plenty on the ball.

The list is long because the game was remarkably well played considering the 81-degree heat in the steam bath that was War Memorial Stadium.

A crowd of 20,850 turned out for the contest co-sponsored by the American Football Coaches Association and the Buffalo Evening News.

Hugh Campbell, the Washington State whiz who led the nation in pass receptions for three years, was voted the most valuable player for catching eight passes for 108 yards and two touchdowns. His last TD catch in the final period, plus Mansfield's conversion, won the game for John McKay of Southern California, the 1962 college Coach of the Year.

Nelsen threw two touchdown passes, completing 11 of 27 for 162 yards.

Jordan, Alabama's fine linebacker, shored up the East line and should make the Dallas club a fine defensive star. He was the best tackle in the game.

The Buffalo fans were thrilled by the work of Saimes, the Michigan State fullback, who topped them all with 86 yards in 16 carries. He suffered a rib injury late in the game.

Lamonica, the 1962 Notre Dame quarterback, was held out at the start due to injuries, but opened up with the pro-type long bombs when he got a chance to throw. He hit Willie Richardson, a future Baltimore Colt from Jackson, Miss. State with a beautiful 28-year TD pass.

Out of Bounds Costly to Boros

Open Champ on Shelf In Cleveland Classic

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—National Open champion Julius Boros hit a ball out of bounds on the sixth hole in the third round of the $110,000 Cleveland Open tournament and the miscue turned the golf world topsy-turvy.

The errant shot, only one that went out of bounds in four days, caused Boros to take a way-over par seven on the hole, cost him $17,683.33 in cash and prevented him from setting a new annual money won record.

Had Boros scored a par 5 on the hole which is considered almost a certain birdie, since the pros usually reach the 511-yard green in two strokes, the National Open king would have won the $22,000 top prize and there would have been no need for today's 18-hole playoff for the title between Arnold Palmer, Tony Lema and Tommy Aaron.

Boros birdied the same hole easily in the fourth round Sunday, reaching it with two wood shots as he scored a 65 on the par 71 Beechmont Country Club course in a valiant effort to win. He fell one shy, however, as Palmer and Lema scored 68s for 273 totals, 11 under par and Aaron birdied the last four holes for a 66 to get into the deadlock.

In today's 18-hole extra heat, the winner picks up $22,000 and the two others get $8,550 each. Boros received $4,316.67 as he tied Sam Snead and Jack Burke at 274. It ran his year's earnings to $63,996.

Aaron, 26-year-old Gainesville, Ga., golfer, who reached the finals of the 1958 National Amateur, has never won a tournament in his three years on the tour. Five years on the tour.

Lema, a 29-year-old ex-Marine who served in Korea, has been a pro since 1955, but created no furor until the last three months of 1962 when he won $20,000.

This is Palmer's third straight playoff. He won the Thunderbird Open in overtime two weeks ago and lost the National Open the same way.

George Sauer, a veteran of 13 years of coaching college teams is director of player personnel for the New York Jets of the American Football League.

Dick Howser, new Cleveland Indian shortstop, and catcher Haywood Sullivan of the Kansas City Athletics are residents of West Palm Beach, Fla.

Roberts Learns A Lot about Pesky Yankees

Berra Still Can Bat; 4 or 5 Outs an Inning Is Not Good Policy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If Robin Roberts will stop sobbing softly over there in the corner, we will discuss what the Boston Red Sox learned over the weekend about how to beat the New York Yankees.

First, they learned that Yogi Berra's .186 batting average does not indicate that he can't hit any more.

Then they learned that you do not give the Yankees four outs in an inning. And you definitely do not give them five.

And Robin's problem? Well, Roberts has pitched in 573 major league games but the one he is likely to remember in the wee hours of the morning when sleep comes hard, is the first game of Sunday's Baltimore-Kansas City double header.

Roberts went 13 1-3 innings in a muggy heat left with one out in the 14th, a runner on second and the score tied 1-1. Meanwhile, his Oriole mates had left 13 men on base.

A walk, a ground out, and then reliever Dick Hall served a two-run single to Doc Edwards. The 3-1 loss was pinned on Roberts. The Orioles struggled 12 innings in the second game to win 4-3.

The Yankees punted the Red Sox twice, 4-2 and 1-4, and may have buried any pennant hopes that lurked in the Boston breast. The double win gave the Yankees a two-game American League lead, and dropped the Red Sox 4 1/2 games back.

The second place Chicago White Sox split, dropping the opener to the Cleveland Indians 8-4 for their third straight loss, before winning the second game 4-2.

The Minnesota Twins won their seventh straight 6-2 over Washington, and Detroit trimmed the Los Angeles Angels 6-5.

In the National League, Houston edged the leading St. Louis Cardinals 1-0, San Francisco beat Cincinnati 7-3, Milwaukee blanked Los Angeles 7-0, Pittsburgh shut out the New York Mets 3-0 and Philadelphia defeated Chicago 3-2.

Old Yogi, now 38 and used mostly as a coach and pinch hitter this season, slugged a three-run homer in the first inning off Red Sox starter Bill Monbouquette for all the runs the Yankees needed. The Red Sox got nine hits off Whitey Ford—who won his 12th and ninth straight decision—and reliever Hal Reniff who came on in the seventh. Monbouquette, who had won nine straight, and Arnold Earley held the Yanks to five.

Although the Red Sox stranded nine men in the first four innings of the second game, they had a 2-1 lead in the Yankee fourth. With the bases loaded, Boston first baseman Dick Stuart let Tony Kubek's two-out grounder go through his legs for a three-run, three-base error.

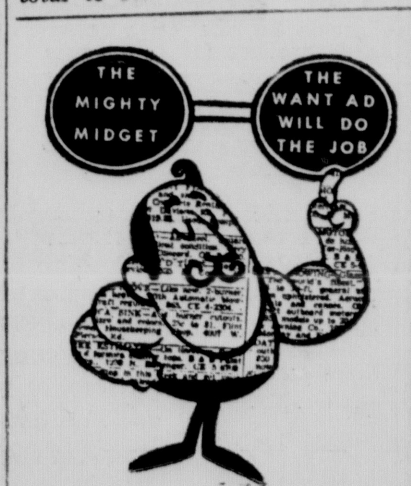

In the seventh, the Red Sox messed up a foul pop by Roger Maris, who promptly singled, and then Chuck Shilling made his second error of the season on a two-out grounder. Four runs followed.

Two-run homers by Max Alvis, Mike de la Hoz and Woody Held powered the Indians in their opener. Dick Donovan lost a shutout in the ninth.

Gary Peters pitched a seven-hitter in the second game for his fifth victory, and third over the Indians. Pe'e Ward had two hits including his 10th homer and Tom McCraw singled home two runs for the White Sox.

Minnesota held out third spot, 2 1/2 games back as Camil Pascual and Mike Fornieles teamed for the victory. Pascual left after three innings when his arm stiffened. He had not pitched since June 12 because of a muscle strain in his right shoulder, but he fanned five of the 10 batters he faced before he left. Jimmie Hall's three-run homer was the big blow. The A's didn't get a bit until the seventh.

Dick McAuliffe hit a lead-off homer in the ninth off Los Angeles reliever ace Julio Navarro for the Detroit victory. For the Angels, Leon Wagner had a good day in the field, hit his 19th homer raised his batting average to a league leading .351 and his RBI total to 57.

8 Pro Football Rookies Show Excellent Prospects

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The first test of the pro football rookies of 1963 points to eight as good bets to make the grade.

They are Hugh Campbell and Kermit Alexander of the San Francisco 49ers, Lee Roy Jordan of the Dallas Cowboys, George Saines and Daryle Lamonica of the Buffalo Bills, John Mickey of the Baltimore Colts, Pat Richter of the Washington Redskins and Bill Nelsen of the Pittsburgh Steelers as good bets to make the grade.

On the basis of their showing in Saturday night's All-America game won by the West 22-21 over the favored East, Lynn Griffing of the New York Giants, Thunder Thornton of the St. Louis Cardinals, Larry Ferguson of the Detroit Lions, Dave Robinson of the Green Bay Packers and Ray Mansfield, Ronnie Goodwin and Nate Ramsey of the Philadelphia Eagles also appear to have plenty on the ball.

The list is long because the game was remarkably well played considering the 81-degree heat in the steam bath that was War Memorial Stadium.

A crowd of 20,850 turned out for the contest co-sponsored by the American Football Coaches Association and the Buffalo Evening News.

Hugh Campbell, the Washington State whiz who led the nation in pass receptions for three years, was voted the most valuable player for catching eight passes for 108 yards and two touchdowns. His last TD catch in the final period, plus Mansfield's conversion, won the game for John McKay of Southern California, the 1962 college Coach of the Year.

Nelsen threw two touchdown passes, completing 11 of 27 for 162 yards.

Jordan, Alabama's fine line backer, shored up the East line and should make the Dallas club a fine defensive star. He was the best tackle in the game.

The Buffalo fans were thrilled by the work of Saines, the Michigan State fullback, who topped them all with 86 yards in 16 carries. He suffered a rib injury late in the game.

Lamonica, the 1962 Notre Dame quarterback, was held out at the start due to injuries, but opened up with the pro-type long bombs when he got a chance to throw. He hit Willie Richardson, a future Baltimore Colt from Jackson, Miss. State with a beautiful 28-yard TD pass.

9 American Students Visit Cuba, Rap U.S.

HAVANA (AP) — The spokesman for 59 American students who evaded U.S. restrictions by flying to Cuba via Communist Czechoslovakia says the Cuban Student Federation invited them and agreed to pay all expenses.

The American students arrived Sunday on their self-styled fact finding visit despite a warning of possible prosecution when they return home.

"They (U.S. authorities) menaced us with prison or fines," said Levi Laub, 27, of New York, spokesman for the group. "Well, they are afraid we will learn what papers say on Cuba is lies."

Laub, who said he is a student at Columbia University, added, "We came to Cuba to see for ourselves whether or not we like what is happening here."

Another student called the trip a defense of the right of free travel. Helen Fleming, 18, San Francisco, said she didn't think the group had broken any law.

The group flew from Prague, Czechoslovakia, in a Cubana Airlines plane and was put up at the luxurious Hotel Riviera.

Stock Prices Drop Sharply

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices took a fairly sharp dip early this afternoon in relatively quiet trading.

Losses of fractions to a point or so prevailed among key stocks. Some of the more volatile issues fell several points.

IBM was a conspicuous casualty, dropping about 8 points.

Auto stocks, firm to slightly higher at the start, faded rapidly, showing a string of losses running to around a point. Steels, easy in early trading, backed down more stubbornly, yielding fractions.

Selling was fairly sharp among the oils which clipped away some of their recent gains. The trend was generally lower among airlines, drugs, building materials, chemicals and rubbers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 2 to 270.7 with industrials off .9, rails up .4, and utilities up .1.

City Replaces 31 Meters on Franklin St.

Replacement of 31 parking meters on W. Franklin St. was completed yesterday.

The meters, slightly used, were purchased from a Canton firm. The almost new equipment was bought at a reduced price.

Cost for each meter was about $32.50. They sell for about $59 each when new. The gear replaces old and worn out meters that have been in service for many years.

Considered in near perfect working condition, the meters will take nickles only and have a two-hour time limit. Five cents provides one hour.

OFFICERS said the meters will not register when dimes and pennies are used.

Police also noted that city meters will be numbered on the posts instead of the meter head. This will facilitate future replacement.

U.S. Shy Data On Red Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission says it has inconclusive evidence of possible recent Soviet nuclear tests of very low yield.

"The evidence remains inconclusive and it is expected that more definite conclusions must await further evidence and analysis," an AEC spokesman said in a brief announcement prompted by published speculation of such tests.

An informed source said a Soviet test in the range of one kiloton apparently did take place June 12, two days after President Kennedy announced the halt of any further U.S. atmospheric tests provided other nuclear nations also refrained.

However, the prevailing guess among Washington officials was that if the Soviets did conduct a test, it was an underground rather than an atmospheric explosion.

Private Flying Interest Revived

Paper Wings Signify Initial Solo Flight at Thomas Field

Awarding of paper wings and a treat of softdrinks Saturday afternoon at nearby Thomas Airport ushered in a new era for the Circleville area.

The cut - out paper wings and free round of sodas signified the solo flight of the first student in a new class of fledgling airplane pilots. Earning the honor with flying colors was William (Bill) Hodge, manager of the local Prairie Lanes Recreation Center.

Revival of private flying interest in this community is due to the efforts of Leon and Lucille Ostrander who have their headquarters at Thomas Airport, west of Circleville on U. S. 22.

The Ostranders actually wear three hats, but their heads are in the clouds — with aviation.

THEY HOLD the local Allis-Chalmers farm implement franchise and provide sales and service in that field.

They also are the owners of Acheson Farming Service, noted primarily for crop-dusting service.

And they are the sponsors of a newly-formed flying club, designed to pep up interest in private aviation in Pickaway County.

The paper wings from the first solo will be tacked to the wall by the Ostranders with the expectation that many more will be placed there yet this summer.

So far, six local men have joined the flying club. Two of their wives are planning to join once their mates have soloed and others have expressed interest.

A licensed instructor has been retained by the Ostranders. He holds classes at Thomas Field each Wednesday and Saturday. He is Dr. Sherman R. Hawley of Chillicothe.

DR. HAWLEY is chief of surgery at the Veterans Administration Hospital near Chillicothe and is a retired colonel. A strict teacher, novice fliers find him to be thorough and patient. His ground classroom instruction is colorful and complete with visual aids.

A long-time aviation enthusiast, Dr. Hawley stresses fundamentals and is in no hurry to turn a student loose on his first solo flight.

The Ostranders are no strangers to aviation. Mrs. Ostrander is proud of a loving cup she received before moving to Circleville.

She was manager of Price Field near Columbus and a plaque on the cup reads: "The Best Airport Manager in the Strategic Air Command."

It was presented on behalf of the hundreds of Lockbourne Air Force Base ground crewmen who had earned their private aviation wings while attending classes at Price Field.

Her husband, a licensed pilot, has hopes of shortly receiving his commercial pilot's rating.

THEY HAVE two children: David, also a privately licensed pilot, who is with the ground forces of the U. S. Air Force at Webb Air Base in Texas; and Trudy, a sophomore coed at Wittenberg University.

FLYING CLUB PROMOTERS — This trio is instrumental in promoting a revival of private flying interests in Pickaway County. On the left is Dr. Sherman R. Hawley, chief of surgery at the VA Hospital near Chillicothe, a licensed instructor who conducts classes. On the right are Lucille and Leon Ostrander who have organized the flying club. They are headquartered at Thomas Airport, on Route 22 west of Circleville.

The Ostranders maintain two aircraft for students — a two-place Piper Cub and a four-place Piper Tri-pacer. A third plane, probably a Cessna Two placer, will be added to the student plane lineup later in the summer.

Ostrander is of the school of thought that believes "you are never too old to learn." He, himself, did not become a pilot until he was about 38 years of age.

He has hopes local business and professional men will be interested in joining his flying club. And Mrs. Ostrander has plans for creating interest among local housewives.

So deeply etched is aviation in the Ostrander family that they frequently fly from Thomas Airport across to Elsea Airport, on the northern outskirts of Circleville, where they park their plane and walk across the road to buy groceries.

But Ostrander has one misgiving about learning to fly. He says "you never can get a repeat performance of your first solo. You can have that experience but once.

Really—Gas cools homes, too?

Surprised? Why? That clean, dependable, thrifty Gas flame does such an efficient job of heating . . . of course it's ideal for cooling, too! And the best part of all is that a single Gas Air Conditioning unit will heat your home in winter, cool it in summer. Just a twist of the dial and you have any temperature you want, any month of the year, in every room of your house!

Or, if you already have a forced air Gas heating system in your home, you can convert it to air conditioning just by adding a Gas cooling unit. It's easy to install. And remember, because a thrifty Gas flame does both the heating and cooling jobs, your operating costs stay low. Call your Gas Company soon for full information and a free estimate.

9 American Students Visit Cuba, Rap U.S.

HAVANA (AP) — The spokesman for 59 American students who evaded U.S. restrictions by flying to Cuba via Communist Czechoslovakia says the Cuban Student Federation invited them and agreed to pay all expenses.

The American students arrived Sunday on their self-styled fact finding visit despite a warning of possible prosecution when they return home.

"They (U.S. authorities) menaced us with prison or fines," said Levi Laub, 27, of New York, spokesman for the group. "Well, they are afraid we will learn what papers say on Cuba is lies."

Laub, who said he is a student at Columbia University, added, "We came to Cuba to see for ourselves whether or not we like what is happening here."

Another student called the trip a defense of the right of free travel. Helen Fleming, 18, San Francisco, said she didn't think the group had broken any law.

The group flew from Prague, Czechoslovakia, in a Cubana Airlines plane and was put up at the luxurious Hotel Riviera.

Stock Prices Drop Sharply

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices took a fairly sharp dip early this afternoon in relatively quiet trading.

Losses of fractions to a point or so prevailed among key stocks. Some of the more volatile issues fell several points.

IBM was a conspicuous casualty, dropping about 8 points.

Auto stocks, firm to slightly higher at the start, faded rapidly, showing a string of losses running to around a point. Steels, easy in early trading, backed down more stubbornly, yielding fractions.

Selling was fairly sharp among the oils which clipped away some of their recent gains. The trend was generally lower among airlines, drugs, building materials, chemicals and rubbers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down .2 to 270.7 with industrials off .9, rails up .4, and utilities up .1.

City Replaces 31 Meters on Franklin St.

Replacement of 31 parking meters on W. Franklin St. was completed yesterday.

The meters, slightly used, were purchased from a Canton firm. The almost new equipment was bought at a reduced price.

Cost for each meter was about $32.50. They sell for about $59 each when new. The gear replaces old and worn out meters that have been in service for many years.

Considered in near perfect working condition, the meters will take nickles only and have a two-hour time limit. Five cents provides one hour.

OFFICERS said the meters will not register when dimes and pennies are used.

Police also noted that city meters will be numbered on the posts instead of the meter head. This will facilitate future replacement.

U.S. Shy Data On Red Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission says it has inconclusive evidence of possible recent Soviet nuclear tests of very low yield.

"The evidence remains inconclusive and it is expected that more definite conclusions must await further evidence and analysis," an AEC spokesman said in a brief announcement prompted by published speculation of such tests.

An informed source said a Soviet test in the range of one kiloton apparently did take place June 12, two days after President Kennedy announced the halt of any further U.S. atmospheric tests provided other nuclear nations also refrained.

However, the prevailing guess among Washington officials was that if the Soviets did conduct a test, it was an underground rather than an atmospheric explosion.

West Berlin Visitors Harassed by Communists

BERLIN (AP)—Weekend visitors from West Germany to Communist East Berlin were harassed by Red border guards, West police reported today.

West Germans who had day permits for visits with friends or relatives were questioned for up to five hours the police said.

Communist authorities made no special difficulties for people entering East Berlin. The trouble started when the visitors began streaming back to the West.

Private Flying Interest Revived

Paper Wings Signify Initial Solo Flight at Thomas Field

Awarding of paper wings and a treat of softdrinks Saturday afternoon at nearby Thomas Airport ushered in a new era for the Circleville area.

The cut - out paper wings and free round of sodas signified the solo flight of the first student in a new class of fledgling airplane pilots. Earning the honor with flying colors was William (Bill) Hodge, manager of the local Prairie Lanes Recreation Center.

Revival of private flying interest in this community is due to the efforts of Leon and Lucille Ostrander who have their headquarters at Thomas Airport, west of Circleville on U. S. 22.

The Ostranders actually wear three hats, but their heads are in the clouds — with aviation.

THEY HOLD the local Allis-Chalmers farm implement franchise and provide sales and service in that field.

They also are the owners of Acheson Farming Service, noted primarily for crop-dusting service.

And they are the sponsors of a newly-formed flying club, designed to pep up interest in private aviation in Pickaway County.

The paper wings from the first solo will be tacked to the wall by the Ostranders with the expectation that many more will be placed there yet this summer.

So far, six local men have joined the flying club. Two of their wives are planning to join once their mates have soloed and others have expressed interest.

A licensed instructor has been retained by the Ostranders. He holds classes at Thomas Field each Wednesday and Saturday. He is Dr. Sherman R. Hawley of Chillicothe.

DR. HAWLEY is chief of surgery at the Veterans Administration Hospital near Chillicothe and is a retired colonel. A strict teacher, novice fliers find him to be thorough and patient. His ground classroom instruction is colorful and complete with visual aids.

A long-time aviation enthusiast, Dr. Hawley stresses fundamentals and is in no hurry to turn a student loose on his first solo flight.

The Ostranders are no strangers to aviation. Mrs. Ostrander is proud of a loving cup she received before moving to Circleville.

She was manager of Price Field near Columbus and a plaque on the cup reads: "The Best Airport Manager in the Strategic Air Command."

It was presented on behalf of the hundreds of Lockbourne Air Force Base ground crewmen who had earned their private aviation wings while attending classes at Price Field.

Her husband, a licensed pilot, has hopes of shortly receiving his commercial pilot's rating.

THEY HAVE two children: David, also a privately licensed pilot, who is with the ground forces of the U. S. Air Force at Webb Air Base in Texas; and Trudy, a sophomore coed at Wittenberg University.

FLYING CLUB PROMOTERS — This trio is instrumental in promoting a revival of private flying interests in Pickaway County. On the left is Dr. Sherman R. Hawley, chief of surgery at the VA Hospital near Chillicothe, a licensed instructor who conducts classes. On the right are Lucille and Leon Ostrander who have organized the flying club. They are headquartered at Thomas Airport, on Route 22 west of Circleville.

The Ostranders maintain two aircraft for students — a two-place Piper Cub and a four-place Piper Tri-pacer. A third plane, probably a Cessna Two placer, will be added to the student plane lineup later in the summer.

Ostrander is of the school of thought that believes "you are never too old to learn." He, himself, did not become a pilot until he was about 38 years of age.

He has hopes local business and professional men will be interested in joining his flying club. And Mrs. Ostrander has plans for creating interest among local housewives.

So deeply etched is aviation in the Ostrander family that they frequently fly from Thomas Airport across to Elsea Airport, on the northern outskirts of Circleville, where they park their plane and walk across the road to buy groceries.

But Ostrander has one misgiving about learning to fly. He says "you never can get a repeat performance of your first solo. You can have that experience but once.
